JAPANESE PLANES CONTINUE MASS RAIDS ON THE CANTON RAILWAYS

Score Of Bombs Dropped At Yingtak Station

OVER 40 MACHINES TAKE PART

Canton, July 11. Japanese mass air attacks on points along the Canton-Hankow and Canton-Kowloon Railway were resumed by 44 planes in a series of three raids this morning and afternoon.

Taking off from its base off the sea coast, a single Japanese plane conducted the first raid at nine o'clock in the morning. It took a northerly course from Chungshan, over Bocca Tigris and Whampoa to reach the Canton-Hankow railway and dropped a number of bombs near the Kongsun station.

Retracing its way back, the plane passed the outskirts of Canton and Shekpa station to return to its base at the sea.

The second raid, which took place shortly after noon, was carried out by 25 planes. They took off from their base at 12.20 and were soon sighted above Chungshan. Proceeding northward, they passed over Whampoa and Bocca Tigris and then broke up into two groups to raid the Canton-Hankow and the Canton-Kowloon lines.

Yingtak, important station south of Shlukwan, on the Canton-Hankow line, was again the target of a score of bombs, while other stations in the vicinity also had their full quota of missiles which were rained from nineteen planes. Altogether forty-eight bombs were later established to have been released.

Another group of nine planes raided the Canton-Kowloon line. In the vicinity of Shekpa, twelve bombs were dropped by the raiders.

In the afternoon at three o'clock, fifteen Japanese planes staged a third raid, this time again on the Canton-Kowloon line. Twelve bombs were dropped near Shekpa, causing minor damages.

At the same time, thirty-one bombs were dropped on Bocca Tigris without inflicting any serious damage to the Chinese defence works.

Apart from demolishing many houses, the raids were responsible for the lives of several civilians who were killed by the missiles. (Central News).

QUESTIONS IN COMMONS

Suggestion Rejected By Mr. Butler

NARCOTICS FROM JAPAN

London, July 11. In the House of Commons today, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, rejected a suggestion made by Mr. R. H. Morgan (Conservative) to obtain from British missionaries in outlying parts of China reports in regard to the extent to which narcotics were at present being imported from Japan and forced on the Chinese.

Mr. Butler said that such official action would be improper for the British Government to take and might place these persons in an embarrassing and difficult position.

FACTORIES

Mr. A. C. Moreing (Conservative) asked on what grounds did the Japanese Government justify the opening of Japanese factories in occupied areas inside and outside of the International Settlement while prohibiting the working of foreign-owned factories on the ground of military necessity.

The Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs said that although the Japanese Government had hitherto made no pronouncement on the matter it was understood that they would maintain control which could be exercised over Chinese workmen in Japanese factories but they were not satisfied that in all cases control, sufficient to prevent subversive activities, can be exercised over Chinese workmen in foreign factories.

The matter, said Mr. Butler, was still being discussed both in Shanghai and in Tokyo. (Reuter).

JAPANESE TROOPS DROWNED IN CHIANTANG

Siaochan, July 11. Caught completely unexpected by a sudden rise of the Chiantang river, more than 100 Japanese soldiers were drowned in the springing waters yesterday, according to a message received here from the front. (Central News).

SIR SHENTON THOMAS TO VISIT BATAVIA

Singapore, July 11. Much interest has been aroused by a report that Sir Shenton Thomas, G.C.M.G., O.B.E., Governor of the Straits Settlements and High Commissioner for the Malay States, will visit Batavia later in the year.

Importance is attached to the report in view of the talk about Anglo-Dutch co-operation in defence following the recent visit to the Dutch East Indies of Lord Gowrie, V.C., G.C.M.G., C.B., D.S.O., Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia. (Reuter).

Admission Of Japanese To New Zealand

SUGGESTION MADE BY BISHOP

Wellington, July 11. The admission of Japanese to New Zealand and North Australia as a fresh, bloodless and altogether satisfactory means of defence is suggested by the Bishop of Waikato, Right Rev. Cherrington, in his charge to the Diocesan Synod.

Dr. Cherrington alluded to Japan as a possible powerful enemy and questioned Britain's ability to guard the Dominions. He said that the matter must be regarded from the Christian not the political viewpoint and added that immigration would be a great accession of wealth to lands which the Dominions cannot people. (Reuter).

ANGLO-CHINESE FRIENDSHIP

Gift To British Museum

London, July 11. As a token of Anglo-Chinese friendship, the Chinese Government has purchased and presented to the British Museum the colossal marble statue of the Amitabha Buddha which was an impressive feature of the Chinese Art Exhibition in London in 1935.

The statue was made in Chihli in A. D. 585 in one of the greatest periods of Chinese religious sculpture.

It is a valuable addition to the Oriental collection in the British Museum which gratefully accepts the gift. (Reuter).

BRITISH NOTE TO SPAIN

Republicans Will Study Plan

Barcelona, July 11. Señor Del Vayo, Spanish Republican Foreign Minister, informed the Cabinet yesterday of the receipt of the British Note containing details of the non-intervention plan.

It is stated that the Cabinet will study the problems arising therefrom; meanwhile, it reaffirmed the position adopted by all governments since July 1936, namely to adjust action in the general interests of peace, for which major sacrifices had been made for the past two years. (Reuter).

HONG KONG-HANOI NEW AIR SERVICE

The Fokker VII (F-ALZR), photographed above, is due to arrive tomorrow morning to inaugurate the Air France service on the Hanoi-Hong Kong extension of the Paris-Hanoi route. The photograph was taken recently at Fort Bayard, Kwong Chow Wan during a survey.

Palestine Disorders Continue Unabated

Jerusalem, July 11. Disorders continue unabated in Palestine with numerous isolated murders and bombing outrages.

In Tulkarem, an Arab police inspector, who was having a shave in a barber shop, was killed when four men entered the premises and fired their revolvers at him.

A twenty-four hour curfew has been imposed in Tulkarem where troops are patrolling the streets. The has been much cutting of telephone wires and many cases of stoning of Jews by Arabs have been reported.

In a fight at Haifa between an armed gang and the authorities one Jew constable was killed and two injured while two British soldiers were also injured. (Reuter Bulletin).

NO PLAY IN THE THIRD TEST MATCH

London, July 11. There was no play again today in the Third Test match between England and Australia following torrential rain at Manchester.

In the morning it was reported that the Old Trafford ground was waterlogged and the weather was overcast. (Reuter).

Protection For The Dollar

Canton, July 11. Any one who refuses to accept National dollars as legal tender or attempts to discount them is subject to severe penalty, according to an official order issued by the Kwangtung Provincial Government.

This measure is designed to check profiteering by unscrupulous operators, who try to bring down the value of the national dollar. The official exchange rate of $1.44 local currency for one National dollar must be maintained.

Many big firms and shops have obeyed the government order and are transacting business on the basis of the National dollars. (International).

PEAK MURDER EVIDENCE AT CRIMINAL SESSIONS

Chinese Police Constable Reprimanded By Acting Chief Justice

DOCTOR QUESTIONED BY COUNSEL FOR DEFENCE

The statement that, in the opinion of Dr. M. O. Pfister, well-known physician and surgeon, accused had the mentality of an average boy of 14, was made by Mr. H. C. Macnamara, defence Counsel, in the course of yesterday's hearing of the Peak Murder Case, in which Lam Chun, 30-year old cook boy, is charged with the murder of Mrs. Sybil Ruby Challinor, wife of Mr. R. H. Challinor, district manager of Imperial Chemical Industries (China) Ltd.

Mr. Macnamara also put questions to a medical witness regarding epileptic equivalent, a form of epilepsy, it was stated, in which a person suffered a maniacal outburst of fury and later had no memory of his acts.

The afternoon hearing of this case was featured by the severe reprimand of a Chinese police officer by the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, who several times warned the man to be careful of his statements. In the midst of a question by His Lordship the witness complained of feeling giddy, and appeared to sway a little on his feet. He was allowed to stand down and rest but recalled later, was once again rebuked by His Lordship, who asked him whether he wanted to be in the dock for perjury.

WAR NEARING HANKOW

Elaboration Of Air Raid Alarms

Hankow, July 11. In view of the proximity of the war area to Hankow the Chinese authorities are busily elaborating air raid alarms. In addition to sirens the authorities will use flags of three colours to warn the populace against air attacks.

The white flag is the sign for the first alarm, the red flag means "urgent" and the green flag the "all clear."

The flags will be seen at policemen's stands and at various street intersections and patrols will also carry them on bicycles. (Reuter).

PART PAYMENT FOR TWO NEW CRUISERS

London, July 11. The Australian aircraft carrier Albatross left Sydney today en route to England as part payment for two cruisers ordered by the Australian Navy.

One of the cruisers will be brought back to Australia by the crew of the Albatross. (Reuter Bulletin).

NEW PORTUGUESE ENVOY

Dr. Joao Maria da Silva, the new Portuguese Minister to China, is expected to arrive here in the s.s. Van Heutz today.

The new envoy, according to information from the local Portuguese Consulate, will probably pay a visit to Macao before proceeding to Chungking to present his credentials to the National Government, says Central News.

234 FISHERFOLK KILLED BY JAPANESE IN JUNE

Reliable quarters here place the total number of fishermen off the Kwangtung coast killed by Japanese naval vessels during the month of June at 234 men, women and children.

The number of junks and fishing boats seized, burned, or destroyed during the month totalled 334, according to the same quarters.

The largest number of Japanese atrocities, it is stated, were committed in the vicinity of Hoihow, Hoppo and Youngkong, while many cases were also reported off the coast of Hoihow, Po-on, Chanshan, and Waiyung. (Central News).

CROWN COUNSEL'S OPENING STATEMENT

Opening the case, Mr. Whyatt said the issues, as far as the Crown was concerned, were simple. They were (1) Did Mrs. Challinor die of a stab wound? and (2) If so, did the prisoner inflict this stab wound? If the answer to these questions were in the affirmative the case was established and the prisoner was guilty of murder.

TWO ISSUES

The defence, in the course of the case, might raise another two issues, namely (1) Assuming prisoner did commit the act, did he know at the time what he was doing? and (2) Alternatively, did he know what he was doing was wrong? If the Jury found that prisoner did not know what he was doing was wrong, then their verdict should be guilty but insane.

The reason, continued Counsel, why he analysed the issues was because he wished to emphasise that whereas the onus was on the Crown to prove the first two, it was the responsibility of the defence to establish the others. In other words, if the defence set up a plea of insanity, it was not the duty of the Crown to elaborate or discuss that point in its opening.

At the time when the events, with which they were concerned, happened, prisoner was employed by Mr. Challinor as a cook-houseboy. He had been so employed for about 15 months, having been engaged in February last year. In addition, prisoner, the domestic staff consisted of a wash amah, a coolie, a gardener, and a chauffeur, who did not live there.

WORK SATISFACTORY

During his employment, prisoner's work as a cook had been satisfactory, but his work as a houseboy left much to be desired. A few months before the murder, his work had deteriorated to such an extent that both Mr. and Mrs. Challinor had to reprimand him for his inefficiency, and indeed on one occasion they went so far as to tell him to look for another job. Prisoner, however, preferred to remain and he did, unfortunately as it now turned out to be, stay until May 4, when Mrs. Challinor was murdered.

Some little time before these events, Mrs. Challinor had made arrangements to go to England to visit her daughter, who was attending school there. It was intended that she should leave on May 29, returning on November 6. Arrangements had been made to sub-let the house during her absence, and when Mr. Challinor was paying the servants their wages on April 20 he gave to each of them a month's notice, terminating their employment.

The notice which he gave to prisoner, stated that his services would no longer be required as the incoming tenants were bringing a cook of their own. The coolie also received a notice, but this was couched in somewhat different terms—that his services would be retained by the new tenants subject to a trial period of two weeks.

"SOMEWHAT UPSET"

Prisoner appeared to be somewhat upset on receiving the notice, and on the following day he spoke to Mr. Challinor, saying he was sorry he was being discharged. Mr. Challinor pointed out the new tenants were bringing their own cook.

About 8 p.m. on May, went on Mr. Whyatt, prisoner said to the coolie in the kitchen: "You had better do me justice." The coolie did not understand what he meant, and accordingly pressed prisoner for an explanation. Prisoner replied: "You have been telling people I am suffering from leprosy," adding that the coolie had told the "Missie." This was denied by the coolie, who offered to go to the Missie herself and repeat his denial before her. Accused did not wish to go, and the matter was then dropped.

About 10.30 p.m. prisoner was seen walking to the servants' quarters of 551 The Peak, which was about half a mile away. The cook employed there was a clansman of his, and prisoner asked him for permission to leave his rattan basket and two bundles of clothing, which he was carrying, saying he had left his employment and was returning to the country.

"A REASON"

Counsel then went on to point out that there must have been a reason for prisoner to make preparations to leave the Colony, but the excuse which he gave was untrue because he was then still in employment. If on the other hand, he thought circumstances might arise which would make it expedient for him to leave then that would be a sufficient and very sensible excuse for taking steps to remove his belongings before these circumstances should happen, as in fact they did.

The late Mrs. Sybil Ruby Challinor

While prisoner was visiting his clansman, Mr. and Mrs. Challinor were retiring to bed. Mrs. Challinor went to bed about 10.30 p.m. followed by her husband half an hour later. The bed nearest to the door was occupied by Mr. Challinor and the one nearest to the window by his wife. The door was left slightly ajar, with a screen drawn in front of the opening.

In the middle of the night, about 1 a.m., Mr. Challinor was suddenly awakened by the voice of his wife, saying, "Boy, boy, don't be silly." He sat up in bed and saw his wife sitting on her own with prisoner standing with his back to the mantel-piece and armed with a knife in each hand. Mr. Challinor jumped out and after pressing the bell-push went to his wife's bed, placing himself between prisoner and her. He said to prisoner: "Let's be sensible, boy. You know what will happen if you injure a man and me." Accused replied: "You say I silly. I am not silly. I kill you," and then took one or two paces towards them.

"STRUCK CONTINUOUSLY"

Mrs. Challinor suddenly sprang out of bed towards the window, with her husband scrambling after her. Prisoner, on seeing this, leapt forward, and struck Mrs. Challinor on the left breast with a knife. She immediately collapsed, while her husband grappled with prisoner. During the struggle, prisoner struck Mrs. Challinor continuously.

Eventually, Mr. Challinor succeeded in pressing prisoner face downwards on the floor, and then called out to his wife to go to the telephone. Mrs. Challinor made as if to rise, but collapsed again. Prisoner continued to struggle and after fighting for some time, he succeeded in regaining his feet. He then made jabs with a knife at Mr. Challinor, who however managed to throw him on the floor again, and catching hold of prisoner's wrists, he said to him: "Be sensible, boy. You have already killed Missie; now you are trying to kill me." Prisoner replied: "I killed Missie, now I kill you," and the struggle continued. Finally prisoner lost his grip on the knives, and picking one up Mr. Challinor pummelled his head with the handle of it, finding himself disarmed, prisoner ran out of the room.

Mr. Challinor immediately went to the bell push, and pressed it in the hope of attracting attention, but there was no response. He went to the window to call the amah and the gardener, but still no one heard him. He then proceeded to the telephone in the hall and called up Central Police Station. In a few minutes the Emergency Unit was called up and assistance was on its way.

After telephoning the Police, Mr. Challinor communicated with Dr. Durran, because he himself was badly wounded and was in urgent need of medical attention. Whilst he was so doing, he saw prisoner walking up and down in the extreme end of the path.

At 4.15 a.m. the coolie who had gone out had returned from town and whilst he was in his room he heard a noise of the gate being either closed or opened. This was followed immediately by footsteps. The door was suddenly opened and the coolie, who was with the gardener, saw prisoner, who was carrying a hammer, covered with blood from head to foot. He had a Chinese jacket on, but no trousers or under clothes.

DETECTIVES ON SCENE

Prisoner attempted to strike them, but they ran away. They went to Stubbs Road and were on the way to the Gough Hill Police Station to make a report, when they met two Chinese detectives.

STOLEN HOTEL CUTLERY

Thirteen Persons Charged For Finding And Receiving

Further evidence was heard before Mr. Barnett at the Kowloon Court yesterday in the case in which two P.W.D. coolies, Li Yuen, 32, and Tong Wing, 53, are charged with larceny by finding of 20 knives, the property of the Peninsula Hotel, and eleven others including two women are charged with receiving stolen property. After further hearing the case was adjourned to July 28.

Mr. W. A. Mackinnay is prosecuting, and Mr. S. Ng Quinn is appearing for Tam Ping and Au Seng-tang, the first and second defendants respectively. Mr. Hin-shing Lo is appearing for the 10th defendant, Yuen Shing.

1,700 Pieces Missing

At the previous hearing it was stated by Mr. Mackinnay that between May 6 and June 8, about 1,700 pieces of silver-plated cutlery had been stolen from the Peninsula Hotel. After investigation had been made by the police, receiving charges were taken out against the nine men and two women.

The loss was discovered on June 8 during the monthly stock-taking. All the cutlery including knives, spoons, forks and tea and coffee spoons had the crest of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Hotels Ltd. on them. In some cases, attempts had been made to erase the marks.

Yesterday first defendant gave evidence. He stated that he had bought the two knives from a marine collector who was passing his shop in Lower Lascar Row. He paid 30 cents for the two knives. He did not think that they were wily.

Second defendant said that he bought the knives from the last defendant.

ON INSPECTION OF AIR ROUTE

Imperial Airways Chief Departs

Among the passengers who left Hong Kong yesterday by the Imperial Airways' plane, Delta for Bangkok was Commander A. D. S. Murray, manager of Imperial Airways (Far East) Ltd., who is on a tour of inspection of the air route between this Colony and Bangkok.

The Delta also carried two other passengers, Capt. R. O. O. Taylor, who is bound for London, and Mr. B. de Wilde, who is going to Singapore.

Mail to the extent of 215,332 kilos and 61,382 kilos of freight were carried.

STOLE MONEY FROM HANGING JACKET

For the theft of $4 from the pocket of Noor Mohamed of the 2nd Mountain Battery, F.K.S.R.A., Whitfield Barracks, Tati Lam 29, coolie, was fined $30 or in default, six weeks' imprisonment, by Mr. Barnett at the Kowloon Court yesterday.

It was stated that on Sunday, defendant entered complainant's room and extracted the notes from a jacket belonging to complainant, who upon searching Tsui discovered the notes on his person and immediately had him arrested.

When the detectives arrived at the scene, they rang the front door bell, and whilst waiting for an answer one of them flashed his torch around. As the beam of light was flashed on to the roof, they saw the figure of a man crouching near the rain pipe.

Immediately the light fell on the figure, the man jumped and landed about 15 feet or so below on the concrete path. The detectives rushed up and saw prisoner, who was still covered with blood from head to foot. When asked why he jumped down, prisoner replied: "I attacked master; the coolie attacked 'missie' and the gardener kept watch."

Meanwhile, Dr. Durran was attending to Mr. Challinor who was later taken to the War Memorial Hospital.

BRITISH CONSUL DEPARTS FROM CHUNGKING

Mr. E.W.P. Mills Has Seen Remarkable Changes

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Chungking, July 10. Mr. E. W. P. Mills, British Consul-General at Chungking, with jurisdiction over Szechuen and Kweichow, left recently by C.N.A.C. plane for home by way of Hankow and Hong Kong, after a service of some five years in this city.

Mr. Mills has been much impressed with local and West China progress, and says that he also saw in recent years much change in the people who were responsible for the civic improvement and economic advance, particularly in the construction of highways.

JAPANESE REPORT DENIED

That British business has not been good in recent months in West China is natural because of war; but Mr. Mills, denied the Japanese report that British subjects had been warned to depart from Szechuen. Including a few in Kweichow, there are more than 400 British subjects in these parts.

As a matter of fact foreign residents in Chungking and other parts of Szechuen have been increasing in recent months; and in Chungking alone, there are nearly 300, including 82 Koreans.

Mr. W. Stark Toller, acting British Consul-General from Kunming, Yunnan, is succeeding Mr. Mills in Chungking. Mr. G. W. Aldington, acting Consul, formerly of Peking, is now on the staff in the Consulate-General with two Chinese assistants.

HEAVY FIGHTING

Heavy fighting was resumed today in south Shansi with Hun-cheng and Houma on the southern section of the Taitung-Puehwa Railway, as the points of Japanese attacks.

By using exhausting guerrilla methods, Chinese troops have succeeded in clearing the Japanese from Pinglu and Fenglingtu in south Shansi, on the north bank of the Yellow River.

The Japanese suffered heavy losses during the siege of Pinglu and Nalhuang during the past two months.—(International)

SUB-MANAGER ON CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Kwan Yue-chuen, 47, sub-manager of the Merchants' Printing Company, Lockhart Road, appeared before Mr. Lockhart-Smith at the Central Court yesterday on a charge of embezzlement of $1,602.83 from the Company on April 25 and 30.

Mr. S. Ng Quinn appeared on behalf of the defendant and Mr. D. McCallum for the prosecution. Bail was fixed at $4,000. The case was adjourned till July 19.

DRUG OFFENCES

Sentence of six months' hard labour and a fine of $1,160 was imposed on Wong Ngau 63, when he appeared before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday charged with the possession of 1,148 heroin pills and 1.3 taels of opium at 126, Temple Street.

For the possession of 1,055 pills and 1.2 taels of prepared opium at an address in Shanghai Street, Cheung Sze, 30, was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

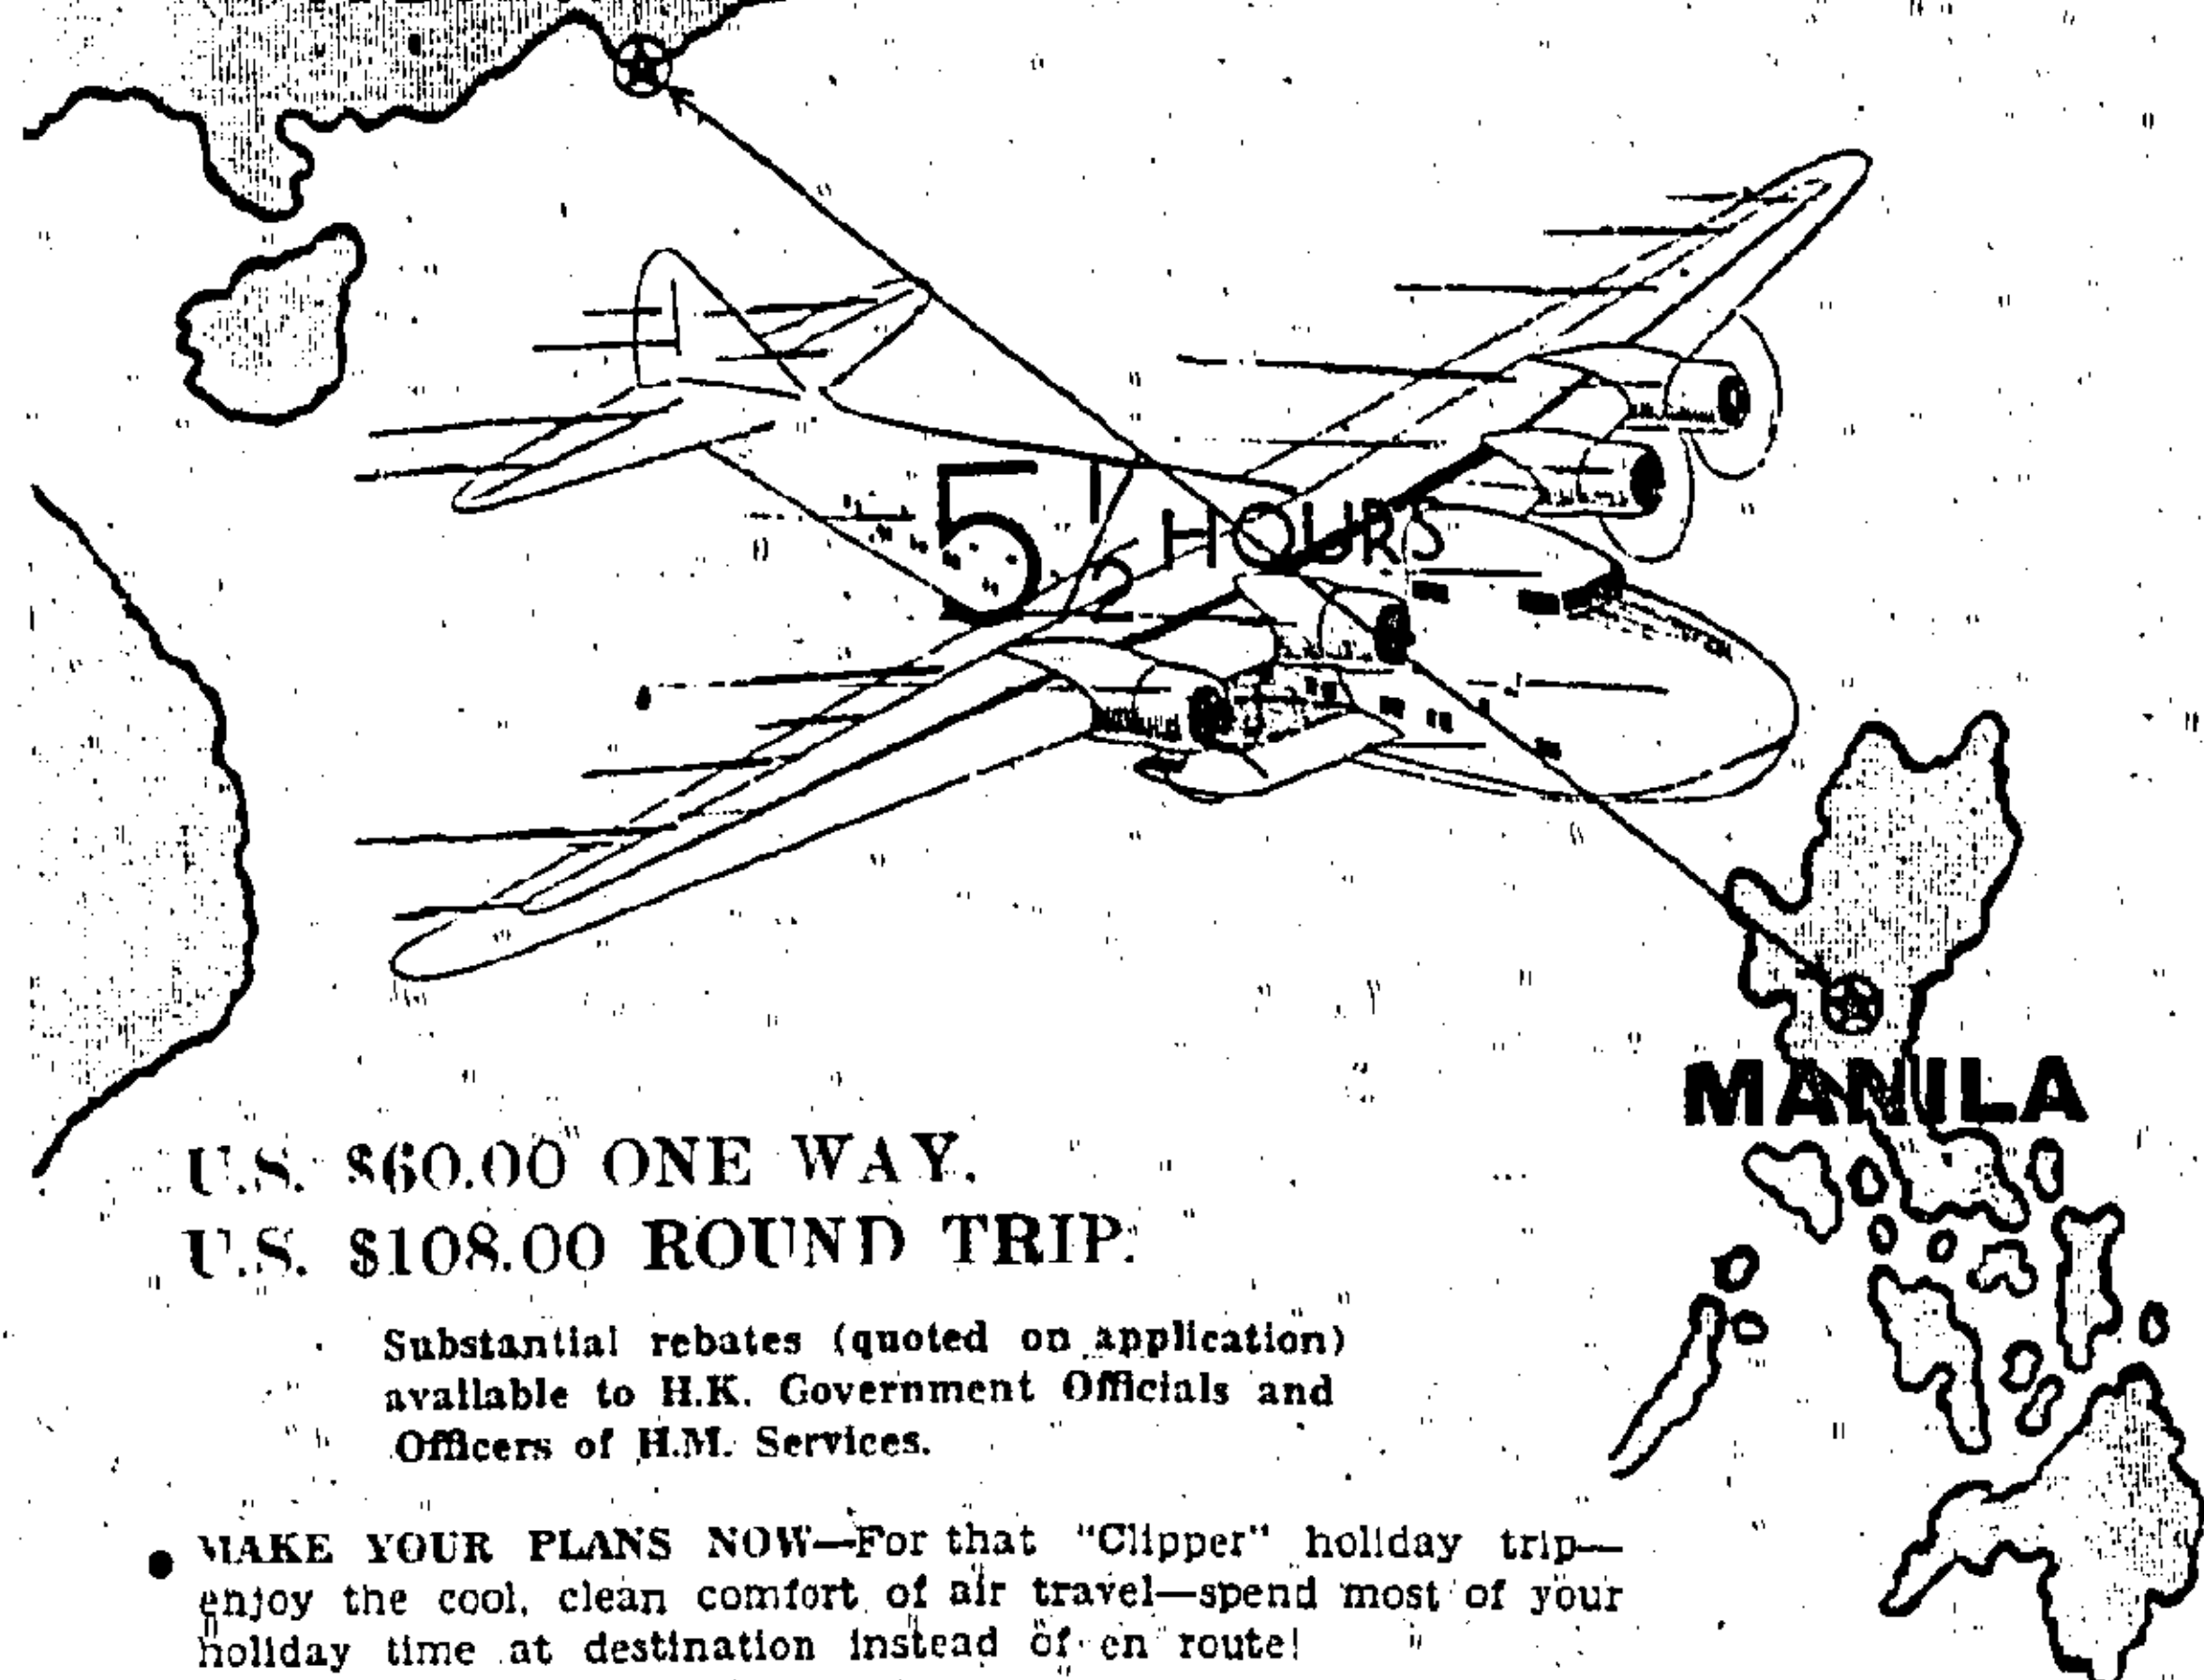

POSSESSION OF DRUGS

A fine of $130 or, in default, three months' imprisonment was registered against Man Chu, 24, when he was charged before Mr. Barnett at the Kowloon Court yesterday for possession of dangerous drugs at No. 578, Shanghai Street. R. O. Warden, who prosecuted, stated that the house in question was raided at 11 p.m. on July 2. Last month, the house had been raided for the same reason, as it had been used as a heroin divan.

Mr. J. McCameron, of No. 15 B Magazine Gap Road, has reported to the Police that during Sunday night someone gained entrance into the house by removing a pane of glass and stole a wrist-watch valued at $20.

AIRWAYS CHIEF HITS OUT AT CRITICS

"No Fear Of Consequences" Letter To Premier

Declaring that it was impossible for him to refrain from writing whatever the consequences might be for himself, Mr. S. A. Dismore, Assistant General Manager of Imperial Airways, recently sent a personal letter to the Prime Minister, in which he says:—"No one fears criticism, but I know that my colleagues have writhed, as I have, under the injustice of irresponsible, inaccurate, and slanderous statements about the company and its officials, made under the immunity of Parliamentary privilege."

His letter, says Mr. Dismore, has been written in justice to men "who are suffering from a sense of grievous unfairness," even although he has no cloak of privilege under which he can speak or write.

"Unless the true facts are known, the harm which has been done to Imperial Airways might remain unhealed," he states, and adds—

"It seems inconceivable that the Government could have known the real facts."

"When the Cadman Committee found that the management of Imperial Airways had failed to co-operate fully with the Air Ministry, and that it had been intolerant of suggestion and unyielding in negotiation, these allegations had not been made known to the management, and no opportunity was given to the management to answer them."

AIR MINISTRY UNYIELDING
"My colleagues on the management staff and I have been asking how have we failed to co-operate? Of what suggestions have we been intolerant?"

"We do not know the answers. The evidence against us has never been published or brought to our notice."

"Were the opportunity given, some outstanding examples of the Air Ministry being unyielding in negotiation could be stated," he adds.

"If some of the officials were able to speak freely with the protection of privilege, a verdict very different from the 'ex parte' findings of the Cadman Committee would have been recorded."

"The Cadman report did not mention the delay in the delivery of land aircraft which the company had ordered in 1934 and 1935 for the European and Empire Services and still undelivered."

UNDESERVED STIGMA
"Neither was any reference made about the efforts made to obtain suitable smaller types of British aircraft."

"As a result, the company incurs the undeserved stigma of having taken no action to equip itself with a new fleet for Europe."

"In 1928 Mr. Woods Humphrey and his colleagues were set the task of trying to look forward ten years and to plan air services to India with subsidies reducing by stages and, later, similar tasks for the air services to South Africa and Malay."

"We managed to beat the tasks we had been set. Yet there are people who now expect that we should bow our heads in shame."

"Let the critics try to forecast their business results ten years ahead."

Then only will they be qualified to criticise men who have fulfilled an almost impossible task."

"Criticism of the company would be more readily acceptable if the critic has really seen something of the vast organisation, travelled on the Empire services, lived with the men, and learned something first-hand of the esprit de corps."

Mr. Dismore pays warm tribute to the work of Mr. Woods Humphrey, the managing director, and concludes:—

"The main object of this letter is to try to minimise the damage to the company and to ask for fair play for, and to re-establish con-

THE SERVICES

ROYAL NAVY

25 MORE VESSELS TO BE COMPLETED THIS YEAR

During the half-year which began on July 1, about 25 vessels are due to be completed for service, aggregating nearly 70,000 tons. This compares with 11 vessels, of 38,260 tons, in the corresponding period of 1937.

The principal ship for completion is the aircraft-carrier Ark Royal, the first large carrier to have been designed as such. Then there are two cruisers, the Liverpool and Manchester, which are to go to the East Indies.

About nine more destroyers of the Tribal class, the largest ever built, should be commissioned by the end of the year; and eight submarines belonging to three types, the Cacholet minelayer, four of the Triton patrol class, and the first three of a new small 540-ton class, Unity, Undine, and Ursula. The escort vessel Escort and the surveying ships Auckland, Seagull and Franklin are in the list, which is completed by the river gunboat Scorpion, to be the new flagship of the Rear-Admiral Yangtze.

SURGEON CAPTAIN FOR MALTA

Surgeon Captain E. C. Holton, O.B.E., is appointed from July 1 to the R.N. Hospital at Malta for duty with Surgeon Rear-Admiral and as Naval Health Officer, Mediterranean, in succession to Surgeon Captain H. St. C. Colson, who has completed three years in this post.

NAVY WEEK PROCEEDS, 1937.

It is officially announced that the net proceeds of Navy Week at the three home ports in 1937 amounted to £19,897 14s. 10d. This was approximately £695 less than in 1936, but was greater than in any other year, and shows that the public interest is well maintained. After making provision for financing Navy Week in 1938, and for capital expenditure at the three ports, there is a balance of £18,400.

of which £14,000 has been allocated to charities and £4,400 to reserve.

NAVAL APPOINTMENTS

The following appointments are made by the Admiralty:—
Capt.—C. Caslon, to Kempenfelt, in command, and as Capt. (D), Fourth Flotilla (Aug. 18).
Lt.—P. E. J. Ryan, to Dolphin (June 29).Surgn. Lt. (D)—W. H. Bain, L.D.S., to Wildfire (July 1).

NEW AERO-ENGINE

The name of Tiger VIII has been adopted officially for the new Armstrong Siddeley 14-cylinder air-cooled radial aero-engine with two-speed supercharger recently introduced into the Service for installation in the Whitley II and III aeroplanes.

By the use of this engine the maximum speed of the aircraft has been increased to about 215 miles an hour at 15,000ft., compared with the 192 m.p.h. of the Whitley I.

SIR R. KEYES ON ALIENS' RED ENSIGN

Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes, M.P., told me recently that he has received protests from captains in the merchant navy, including some with fine war records, against the way in which aliens are obtaining British registration for worthless ships in order to make profits out of the Spanish war, writes the Evening Standard correspondent.

"I am not at all satisfied," he said, "with the Government attitude, as shown in a recent answer given in Parliament by Mr. R. S. Hudson, Secretary to the Overseas Trade Department."

This reply was to the effect that it had always been the practice of this country to allow and encourage foreign ownership of British ships provided it was done in accordance with the law and through companies carrying on business in this country.

"That is not good enough, and it was time the law was altered," Sir Roger said.

"There are companies, whose ships have never entered a British port and yet are permitted British registry. Some of the ships are old, ill-found and ill-manned, and thoroughly unfit for service in the British mercantile marine."

FLAG IN DISREPUTE

"We should refrain from giving British registration to ships which are not in every way worthy to uphold the reputation of the Red Ensign. These ships are bringing it into disrepute."

"A very short and simple Bill should be drafted for the Government and passed to put an end to this kind of thing."

"As I have already said in the House of Commons, France has very right to complain when we allow Russians and Greeks, who run this class of ship under the British flag to take in cargoes which, though they may not be contraband, comprise goods which are of benefit to his enemy."

"There was a time when it was universally accepted that a ship flying the Red Ensign was a well-found ship in all respects manned by the finest seamen in the world. That claim can no longer be sustained because of the practice which is being allowed."

"Other M.P.s beside myself feel that a state of affairs is existing which ought to stop."

Britain's Great Potato Mystery

A nation-wide investigation is in progress in Great Britain to discover why potatoes tend to get black when cooked, said Dr. L. H. Lampitt in an address to the International Congress of Chemistry in Rome.

Dr. Lampitt, who is a director and Chief Chemist of a big British firm of caterers (Editor J. Lyons and Co.), instanced this investigation as an example of the work being done by British research workers in the development of food science.

"The most important factor which has been effective during the past generation," he said, "has been the desire of nations to be self-supporting, particularly in respect of the feeding of their respective nationals."

"This desire has influenced the agricultural policy of every nation in Europe at least, and any development of an agricultural policy can only be brought to a satisfactory conclusion by and with the help of those concerned with the science of food which is to be the outcome of that policy."

"The report of the food investigations board (a Government body) shows how much fundamental scientific work has been carried out firstly on the feeding of pigs to produce the best meat and secondly on the changes which take place when the meat is processed either by smoking or by curing."

Dr. Lampitt said that the growth and health of children were still being seriously handicapped by protein and vitamin deficiencies in their food.

"Nutritional studies have shown how little we know of the really constituents of food, those constituents which make the wheels of life go round or alternatively clog them so that they either move too slowly or stop altogether. This is the field where there is most work to be done."

MILLIONAIRE AIRMAN SETS OUT FOR PARIS

New York, July 11. Howard Hughes, the millionaire film producer and airman, took off at 12.20 a.m. today from Floyd Bennett airfield for Paris on the first stage of a flight around the world.

Howard Hughes, who is in his early thirties, is noted as the "discoverer" of Jean Harlow, the famous film star who died last year.—(Reuter).

A NEW SERIES OF POWERFUL DRUGS

Remarkable Results From Treatment

A new series of drugs of remarkable power was marketed in 1935 by the German Dye Trust. They are sold under the trade name "prontosil," and are closely related to a substance named para-amino-phenyl-sulphonamide, known in England and the United States as sulphadiazine.

Numerous investigators soon reported extraordinary results obtained by treatment with the new drugs, but the reports were received with caution, as the conclusive proof that medical recovery is due to treatment and not to other factors is usually difficult. Clinical research has now provided sufficient proof that the discovery of the sulphadiazine drugs is one of the greatest in medicine, writes the scientific correspondent of the Manchester Guardian.

They are particularly effective in the treatment of puerperal fever, blood-poisoning, meningitis, and many other diseases due to streptococci, or round-shaped bacteria of the type which arrange themselves like strings of beads. Those forms of meningitis due to the infection of the surface of the brain by streptococci are extremely deadly.

Until 1936, 92 per cent to 100 per cent of patients suffering from per cent of patients suffering from one type of streptococcal meningitis died. Since then 39 patients definitely known to have this disease have been treated with the new drugs, and 32, or 82 per cent, recovered.

According to Price's "Text-book of Medicine," published in 1937, no patient suffering from meningitis due to the sort of bacterium which also produces pneumonia had been known to recover. Since then, in records of 16 patients suffering from this disease and treated with the drugs, six or 38 per cent, have recovered.

In many of these cases the bacteria disappear from the patient's body within twenty-four hours to seven days. The pathologist who made the bacterial tests in one case could not believe that the second specimen, free from bacteria, could have come from the same patient who shortly before had provided the first.

PUERPERAL FEVER

Very careful trials of the new drugs in the treatment of puerperal fever have been made at Queen Charlotte's Hospital, London. Sixty-four patients were treated, and every aspect of their case was observed and thoroughly analysed.

It was concluded that 28 patients, who had mild attacks, would have recovered without the drugs, but the recovery of the remaining 36 was definitely assisted by them. The fall in the death-rate after the introduction of the treatment was sudden and remarkable. One form of the disease, described as invasive, is deadly. Formerly 71 per cent of the patients, suffering from it had died. This figure fell to 27.3 per cent after the introduction of the new treatment.

Experiments on the use of the drugs as prophylactics have been made. The patient is given injections to prevent her from catching infections. It is not as yet certain whether all normal patients should receive such treatment as a routine, but it is certain that if a patient has recently recovered from tonsillitis, scarlet fever, infections of the nose, &c. or has recently been in contact with infected persons, she should receive such preliminary injections.

AMERICAN AIR STRENGTH

Big Contracts For New Machines

$2,900,000 ORDERS

The War Department announced on July 1, that as the culmination of the intensified effort made during the past year to obtain 2,320 first-line aircraft by July 1, 1940, orders had been placed for 98 new aircraft and additional engines and equipment costing $14,434,000 ($2,886,800).

The first order is for 13 B-17B four-engine bombers from the Boeing Aircraft Company, of Seattle, to cost $3,175,000. This will bring the number of these "flying fortresses" on hand or on order up to 52. The new bombers are of the same type as the machines which recently flew to Buenos Aires and back. They have a maximum speed of over 250 m.p.h. and carry five machine-guns and a crew of nine.

LARGEST SINGLE ORDER

The second and largest single order is for 78 B-18A twin-engine bombers from the Douglas Aircraft Company, of Santa Monica. These machines, like the Boeing bombers, are fitted with Wright Cyclone engines and have a maximum speed of over 225 m.p.h. Over 250 of them have now been bought, at a cost of $15,000,000, and the whole contract with this firm is the largest ever made by the Army in peace time. The remaining seven aircraft ordered are Vultee YA-19 aeroplanes. They are single-engine monoplanes with a speed of 230 m.p.h. and are designed to carry 600lb. of bombs and six machine-guns. The makers are the Aviatron Manufacturing Corporation, of Downey, California. The orders for engines and equipment have been distributed among several American manufacturers.

During the 12 months which ended on June 30, 538 aeroplanes were ordered at a total cost of $2,900,000.

The National Government, on a recommendation by the Executive Yuan, has issued a mandate commending the Fu Hsing and Yu Hwa Companies in Hankow for their recent donations of $100,000 and $50,000, respectively, to the national relief funds, states a dispatch to the "Sin Wan Pao."

$5,125 FOR AIR STAMPS

Rare Varieties On Offer

Rare varieties of air mail stamps from a well-known American collection realized a total of $5,125 in a two-day sale, which ended recently, at Harmer, Rooke's auction rooms in London, says The Times.

Errors and misprints were a feature of the collection, the highest price being £725 for the extremely rare 24 cents air mail stamp of the U.S.A. (1918) with centre inverted, so that the aeroplane appears to be flying upside down.

One of the eight recently discovered copies of the Newfoundland Balbo flight stamp of 1933, surcharged $4.50 on the wrong value—i.e., 10 cents instead of the normal 75 cents—made the next best price at £450, while £135 was paid for a block of four of the 1s. air mail stamp of Papua, 1929-30, showing the overprint inverted.

Two similar errors on the Graf Zeppelin issue of Argentina (1930) fetched 100 guineas, and a single mint copy of the 15 cents Sankiang provisional air mail stamp of China £125.

Among the prices for normal stamps were £36 for the Australian Rosa-Smith vignette, without side-margins; £34 for the first official 2 centavo air mail stamp of Colombia; and £50 for a fine example of the Miss Columbia flight stamp of Newfoundland (1930).

A slightly stained copy of the Newfoundland De Pinedo flight stamp, on cover, made only £30. On the other hand, a mint copy of the Halifax issue in the narrow setting with overprint inverted fetched £80, and a similar specimen, but wide spacing, £50.

American collectors were among the principal buyers, and fully half the collection will find its way back to the United States.

DEVIL'S PARTY

Victor McLaglen is seen in one of his most tempestuous roles to date, in Universal's powerful drama, "The Devil's Party," which opens at the Queen's Theatre today. This picture delineates the life history of five youngsters after they emerge from one of the toughest districts in New York. It emphasizes the fierce friendships and loyalties that are carried over from the "Hell's Kitchen" days even though fate has placed these five in positions unalterably opposed to one another. The leading feminine part in the picture is played by Beatrice Roberts, a beautiful newcomer to films. Paul Kelly, William Gargan, John Callaudet, Frank Jenks, and Dave Oliver are in the supporting cast.

MACAO VARIETY PERFORMANCE

White Whale Killed Off Canada

A White whale has been killed about eight miles off shore near Vernon, Prince Edward Island, when five fishermen in a motor launch came upon it. The fisherman fired about 40 rounds from shotguns at the whale before killing it after a four-hour fight and then towed it to the shore. The whale measured 12 feet 8 inches in length, 84 inches in girth and had 18-inch flippers and a 32-inch tail. Whales are seldom seen off this maritime province and a white one is considered unique.

PRIMATE ON SCOPE OF THE RED CROSS

Influence To Lessen War's Horrors

The close of the International Red Cross Conference, in London was marked recently by a service in St. Paul's Cathedral "to give thanks for the work of the Red Cross throughout the world." The Princess Royal, Commander-in-Chief of the British Red Cross Detachments, was met at the west door by the Lord Mayor and the Cathedral clergy, and she sat under the dome surrounded by V.A.D. nurses and the foreign delegates who have been attending the Conference, among whom were Professor Max Huber, President of the International Red Cross Committee, Geneva, and Mr. Norman Davis, Chairman of the League of Red Cross Societies and of the American National Red Cross.

There were V.A.D. members representative of every county of England, Wales, and Scotland, and some 300 children of the Junior Red Cross. A Red Cross Colour was carried in procession, and laid on the altar during the service. Minor Canon Donne officiated. The Dean of St. Paul's read the Lesson, and the Bishop of Willesden represented the Bishop of London. The Archbishop of Canterbury, in an address, said the Red Cross movement was called into being to relieve the sufferings of soldiers wounded in battle; but it had become a great fellowship whose members were ready everywhere to succour all wounded by accidents which attended the daily lives of men or by the devastations of nature.

SERVICE TO HUMANITY

Today, when in some parts of the world the divisive passions of nationality were strong; when the international atmosphere was full of misunderstandings, suspicions, and fears, it was a cause of profound thankfulness that there was a movement which transcended all those barriers, united all men of good will, and gave itself simply to the service of humanity. Still, alas! there was need of the service it was created to render, and it might be that in the future the need would be even greater and on a vaster scale. The mere possibility that what was deemed to be the progress of civilization should end not only in widespread war, but in war stained by forms of destructive savagery unknown even in the wild days before civilization began, must bring to our conscience a sense of bewilderment and shame. The Red Cross knew no politics. It was not its province to pass judgment on policies, whether civil or military, of any nation. But its devotion to suffering humanity must impel it to use its influence to restrain needless slaughter and to hasten the time when nations would awake from those new horrors as from a nightmare, and by common consent banish bombs from the earth and the sky.

Accompanied by the Lord Mayor, the Princess Royal inspected the guard of honour, which was mounted outside the Cathedral by men's detachments of the City and county of London under the command of Colonel Evans, County Director for the City of London.

ELEPHANT EATS A RUCKSACK

An elephant belonging to a German circus has eaten—and, successfully digested—a rucksack. He was being led from the railway station at Kahl to the local shooting-festival when he discovered a rucksack on the seat of a farmer's cart. It contained three pounds of sausage and three pounds of bread. Seizing the rucksack with his trunk, the elephant stuffed it into his mouth and swallowed it whole. Its unusual meal has not troubled its digestion at all. The owner of the rucksack summoned the circus-owner, who had to pay for a new rucksack and the cost of the sausage and bread.

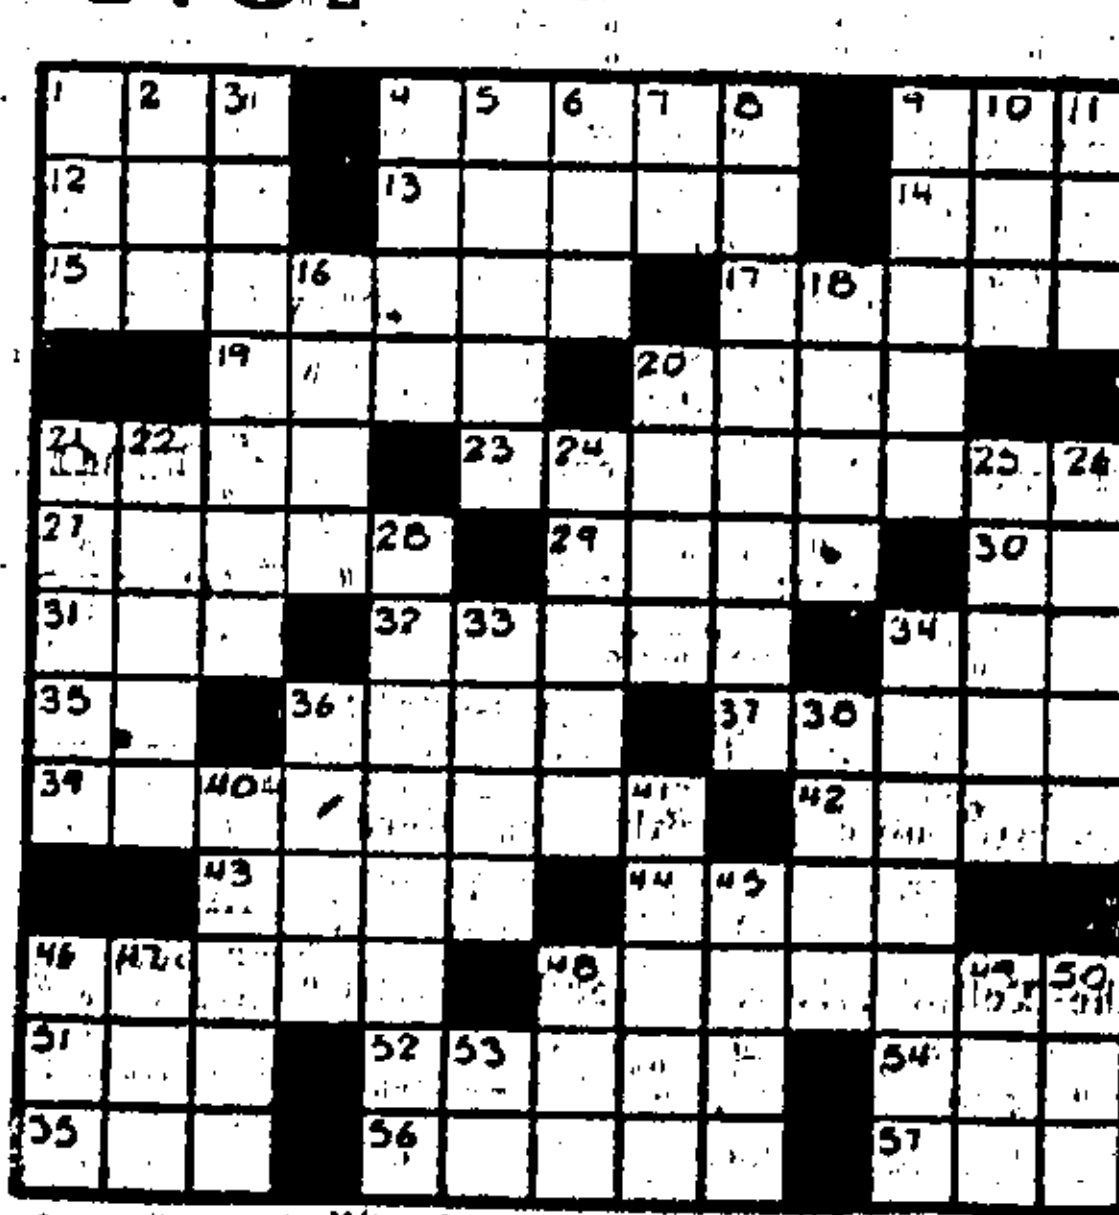

THROWING LIGHT ON THE MATTER

A NOVEL plan to light the streets in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, has been submitted to the city council by an inventor. He proposes to obtain the necessary power for the lighting by harnessing the traffic in the streets. The roads would be covered with metal plates. Attached to the plates underneath would be pistons. Motor-cars and other vehicles passing over the plates would depress the pistons. These, in turn, would operate generators, which would supply current for the lighting.

FOOT ITCH Athlete's Foot

According to the Government Health Bulletin No.
E-28, at least 50% of the adult population of the United States are being attacked by the disease known as Athlete's Foot.

Usually the disease starts between the toes. Little watery blisters form, and the skin cracks and peels. After a while, the itching becomes intense, and you feel as though you would like to scratch off all the skin.

BEWARE OF IT SPREADING

Often the disease travels all over the bottom of the feet. The soles of your feet become red and swollen. The skin also cracks and peels, and the itching becomes worse and worse.

Get rid of this disease as quickly as possible, because it is very contagious and it may go to your hands or even to the under arm or crotch of the legs.

Most people who have Athlete's Foot have tried all kinds of remedies to cure it without success. Ordinary germicides, antiseptics, salve or ointments seldom do any good.

HERE'S HOW TO TREAT IT

The germ that causes the disease is known as Tinea Trichophy- ton. It buries itself deep in the tissues of the skin and is very hard to kill. A test made shows it takes 15 minutes of boiling to kill the germ; so you can see why ordinary remedies are unsuccessful.

H. F. was developed solely for the purpose of treating Athlete's Foot. It is a liquid that penetrates and dries quickly. You just paint the affected parts. It peels off the tissue of the skin where the germ breeds.

ITCHING STOPS IMMEDIATELY

As soon as you apply H. F. you will find that the itching is immediately relieved. You should paint the infected parts with H. F. night and morning until your feet are well. Usually this takes from three to ten days, although in severe cases it may take longer or in mild cases less time.

H. F. will leave the skin soft and smooth. You will marvel at the quick way it brings you relief, especially if you are one of those who have tried for years to get rid of Athlete's Foot without success.

FRENCH OCCUPATION OF PARACELS A FEELER

Issue Will Not Generate War

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

Canton, July 11.

According to Chinese residents returning from Saigon, the French occupation of Paracel Islands is intended to test Japanese reactions and neither France nor Japan will go to war over the issue.

These returned Chinese are unable to confirm vernacular reports that the French colonial authorities plan to fortify Paracels or that French warships are anchored near the islands.

About 600 Japanese bluejackets from the different islands off Chungshan county have been sent to Pratas Island, about 150 miles southwest of Hong Kong, as a counter-measure against the Paracels occupation according to local papers. Two Japanese troopships arrived there over the week-end to land military equipment for the fortification of the Pratas.

As Japan still has designs on Hainan Island, over 10,000 aborigines have completed training for service on the Five-Finger Mountain in the central part of Hainan. They are armed with rifles, hand grenades and machine-guns. On the mountains, Japanese mechanised units cannot operate very well, and the native will put up a stiff resistance should Japanese troops land.

ALARMING RUMOURS

With the Japanese Navy diverted to Pratas and Paracel Islands, the Kwangtung coast was not molested by warships during the week-end.
All rumours of an imminent invasion of Kwangtung died down following the execution of three traitors, who directed the firing of rockets and the spread of alarming news.

JAPANESE SEND REINFORCEMENTS TO SHANSI

Chinese Evacuate Yangcheng After Recent Capture

Yuanqu, Shansi, July 11.
Menaced by Chinese forces in Shansi, which have recaptured many important towns, the Japanese in that province are expected to be reinforced by 50,000 troops very shortly.

The reinforcements have been provided with some 30 planes, with Shihchiachwang, in western Hopei, as their base. (Central News).

CHINESE GIVE UP YANGCHENG

Chengchow, July 11.
After a brief re-occupation of Yangcheng, important southeast Shansi town, Chinese troops have evacuated for strategic reasons. It was officially announced here yesterday.

The Chinese withdrawal was effected following a Japanese flanking movement which threatened the rear of the defenders.
Retiring to the hilly regions on the outskirts of the town, the Chinese have erected strong defence works for prolonged operations.

Yangcheng was only recently regained by the Chinese troops after a long siege followed by a hot engagement in which 500 Japanese were killed and considerable military equipment was seized.

TSIYUAN COUNTER- ATTACKED

Loyang, July 11.
Heavily reinforced, Chinese forces are now launching a fierce counter-offensive on the Japanese at Tsiyuan, on the north bank of the Yellow River, in north Honan, which was lost on July 8.

At the same time, they are driving on Chippumiao and other strategic points outside Tsiyuan with success.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 Japanese troops from Tainyang, to the east, are attempting to reinforce their comrades at Tsiyuan, but are being held in check at Shaoctier by the Chinese. (Central News).

YOUTH REGIMENT TO BE FORMED

Canton, July 11.
General Tsai Ching-chun, former director of the Shanghai
Police Bureau, has been appointed commander of the Kwangtung branch of the "Three People's Principle Youth Regiment," which will be formed here some time this month.

General Tsai has received instructions from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, commander-in-chief of the Republic, regarding the formation of the body. (Central News).

P.P.C. PLENUM ADOPTS FIVE RESOLUTIONS

Press Censorship To Be Unified

Hankow, July 11

The first plenum of the People's Political Council now in session here continued its deliberations yesterday.

Five important resolutions were adopted, including one calling for nation-wide support for the Government and continued resistance against Japan. This resolution was moved by 21 members of the Council.

Another resolution asking for readjustment of political bodies to ensure the full exertion of popular strength was also adopted.

Questions relating to the Fourth Estate also came in for discussion at the meeting.

PRESS CENSORSHIP

After hearing a report by the examination sub-committee, the Council passed a resolution promising a concrete standard and a unified administration for press censorship.

A proposal referred to the Council by the National Government, calling for the exploitation of mine deposits in the interior, was the fourth resolution adopted
yesterday.

The fifth resolution adopted, which calls for the development of interior agriculture, was also handed down by the Government.

The meeting yesterday was attended by 151 members of Council, with Dr. Chang Po-lin, Vice-Chairman, presiding.

Among the Government officials who attended were Mr. Yu Ju-jen,
Mr. Chu Cheng, Mr. Yeh Chu-tsanz, Mr. Hsu Shih-ying, Mr.
Chang Kia-ngau and Dr. Wong
Wen-hao. (Central News).

MEMORIAL FOR MURDERED WOMAN TEACHER

Hankow, July 11.

A solemn memorial service was held here yesterday for the late Miss Yu Wei-hua, former teacher in the South-west Girls' College,
Hong Kong, and member of the People's Political Council now in session here, who was murdered on June 29.

Many prominent women leaders, including Madame Li Tsung-jen and Madame Ma Chao-chun, were among the 200 present at the service. (Central News).

Rebels Attack Jewish Colony

FURTHER OUTRAGES

Jerusalem, July 11.
Armed rebels, believed to number 300, last night attacked the colony of Givatada, to the south of Haifa, seriously injuring three Jewish settlers. The rebels cut the telephone wires before the attack.

British troops have been dispatched to the rescue of the settlers.

Two abortive bomb outrages in Jerusalem yesterday afternoon produced renewed tension, and armoured cars patrolled the streets all evening.

One bomb was found unexploded in an Arab-owned cinema while another, thrown from a bus in the Jewish quarter, exploded slightly, injuring three bystanders and causing a panic. (Reuter).

YOUTH SHOT DEAD

Haifa, July 11.
One Jewish youth was shot dead in Tiberias yesterday while going home from work.

Sixteen persons were injured when a bomb was thrown at the Jewish bus here last night. One of the victims later died.

The bomb explosion was the third yesterday, bringing the total of Jews injured to 24. (Reuter).

ART EXHIBITION AT CATHEDRAL

Splendid Paintings And Wood-Cuts

An excellent exhibition of paintings and wood-cuts, the works of the well-known Chinese artist, the late Mr. Wong Oi-hung and Dr. Emma Milch-Bormann, respectively, was held at St. John's Cathedral Hall yesterday afternoon and will be continued today and tomorrow.

The exhibition, which is held under the auspices of the Hong Kong Working Artists' Guild, was opened by the Dean of the Cathedral, Very Rev. J. L. Wilson.

The late Mr. Wong and his mother came to the Colony as refugees, and shortly after arrival Mr. Wong became ill and died. The exhibition is being held to raise funds for his mother.

The late Mr. Wong has displayed his works at art exhibitions in Nanking and elsewhere in China.

DEAN'S SPEECH

Declaring the exhibition open, Dean Wilson said:

This exhibition has a twofold object. One is to let the public see and to persuade them to buy the work of a Chinese artist who came to Hong Kong as a refugee, Mr. Wong Oi-hung, and who because of his privation died here; any proceeds from the sale of his paintings will go to support of his mother who is also a refugee left destitute in this Colony. The other object is to exhibit original wood-cuts by Dr. Emma Milch-Bormann.

Any proceeds from this exhibition will be given to the Red Cross. It is a fine gesture that an artist of international repute is willing to show her sympathy with the Chinese people by contributing to the work of rescuing the wounded and stricken victims of the war.

On behalf of all those who are going to benefit, I wish to thank all concerned in this splendid effort. I also want to say that we consider ourselves fortunate in having in Hong Kong the opportunity to see such paintings and wood-cuts.

MRS. A. N. MACFADYEN
Mrs. A. N. Macfadyen, wife of the Maj. A. N. Macfadyen, President of the Guild, gave an interesting talk on the career of Dr. Milch-Bormann.

Mrs. Macfadyen said:—
Dr. Milch-Bormann studied paleontology as a University student with the great scientist O. Menghin, and took her Doctor's degree with a thesis at Egenburg, Austria. She became Lecturer on Paleontology at the University of Vienna, where her father was a famous Archaeologist.

In the course of her work she had to illustrate Ancient Art, and in order to do so adequately studied at an Art and Craft School, especially methods of reproduction. Conditions being difficult towards the end of the Great War, she went to Munich, where she made occasional drawings for magazines, advertisements, etc. A well-known artist, Pretorius, admired her work, and got her a position as teacher of Art at the Munich Municipal Art School. She rapidly came to the front as an illustrator, and began to try out an entirely original technique in wood-cuts.

She went to Sweden about 1922, where Dr. Milch had been teaching Anatomy in Art Schools, as he had previously done at Vienna. In 1924 she married Dr. Milch, and visited many countries with him, and the United States by herself. She became Lecturer on the Technique of Art and Reproduction at the University of Vienna.

Her work is represented in the Art Collection in the Albertina in Vienna, the Metropolitan Museum in New York, and the Art Gallery in Chicago.

What is perhaps of more direct interest to us, her work is represented by fifteen examples in the British Museum.

EASTERN BANKING PROBLEMS

P. & O. Chairman's Views

For banks operating in the East the past 12 months were rendered unusually difficult by the outbreak of war in China and by the long continued fall in commodity prices, which affected the prosperity of clients in the primary producing countries.

In these circumstances the inability of the P. & O. Banking Corporation to maintain profits at the same level as in the preceding year was scarcely to be wondered at.

In his survey at a recent meeting, Mr. Arthur D'Anvers Willis, the chairman, did not minimize the difficulties which had been met with, but showed that their effect upon the bank's business had been to restrict further expansion rather than to cause actual loss.

Thus the reduction in profits directly attributable to the Shanghai situation had been kept, he said, within modest bounds. Likewise trade advances had been, on the whole, fully maintained, though the fall in prices made a cautious policy necessary.

The increase of £1,200,000 in advances shown in the balance-sheet was almost wholly accounted for, he explained, by the use of funds at home in short and temporary loans of a gilt-edged character.

Though an improvement in American business may, he agreed, be followed by a rise in prices, Mr. D'Anvers Willis is not sure whether such a rise will assist trade in the bank's territories while abnormal conditions persist in China.

Mr. Donald, of No. 7, Leighton Road, has reported the loss of money and jewellery to the value of $101 from his residence.

Cadetships For Chinese Women

FIVE HUNDRED COMPETING

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

Chungking.

Approximately 500 young Chinese women are competing for appointment to the 40 cadetships offered by the Chungking Municipal Bureau of Public Safety. This is the first time Szechuan has enlisted women for police duty, though Shanghai and Nanking have used them extensively.

All candidates for appointment must be single, and range between the ages of 18 and 24 years. A common school education is necessary, as well as an irreproachable home background.

Appointments are based on physical and mental efficiency, after a medical and educational test, written and oral.

When selected the 40 cadets enter into a six month training course, after which a term of three years must be served in the Police Force. While under training the future police women will be provided with room and board, uniforms, and a $2-monthly for personal expenses.

Upon completion of the six month training, these women are given the rank of Constable Second Class and receive a wage of $10.00 a month.

Policewomen in Chungking are not expected to undertake ordinary patrol or traffic squad duty. They handle special service, such as census taking, women and children relief and the enforcement of regulations against cruelty to helpless girls.

FOUR CASES OF CHOLERA

With four cases reported on Sunday the number of cholera cases has been brought above the hundred mark. Altogether, 103 cases have been notified within recent weeks.

Six cases of enteric fever, five cases of measles, three cases of dysentery, and two cases of diphtheria were also reported on Sunday.

HEROIN POSSESSORS SENTENCED

Sentence of six months' hard labour and a fine of $1,000 or, in default a further six months' imprisonment, was imposed upon Mo Chiu, 35, when he was charged before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Court yesterday for being in possession of 1,406 heroin pills at No. 147 Temple Street on July 2.

For being in possession of 554 heroin pills at the same address on July 2, sentence of six months' imprisonment and a fine of $550 was passed on another accused, Lee Kwun.

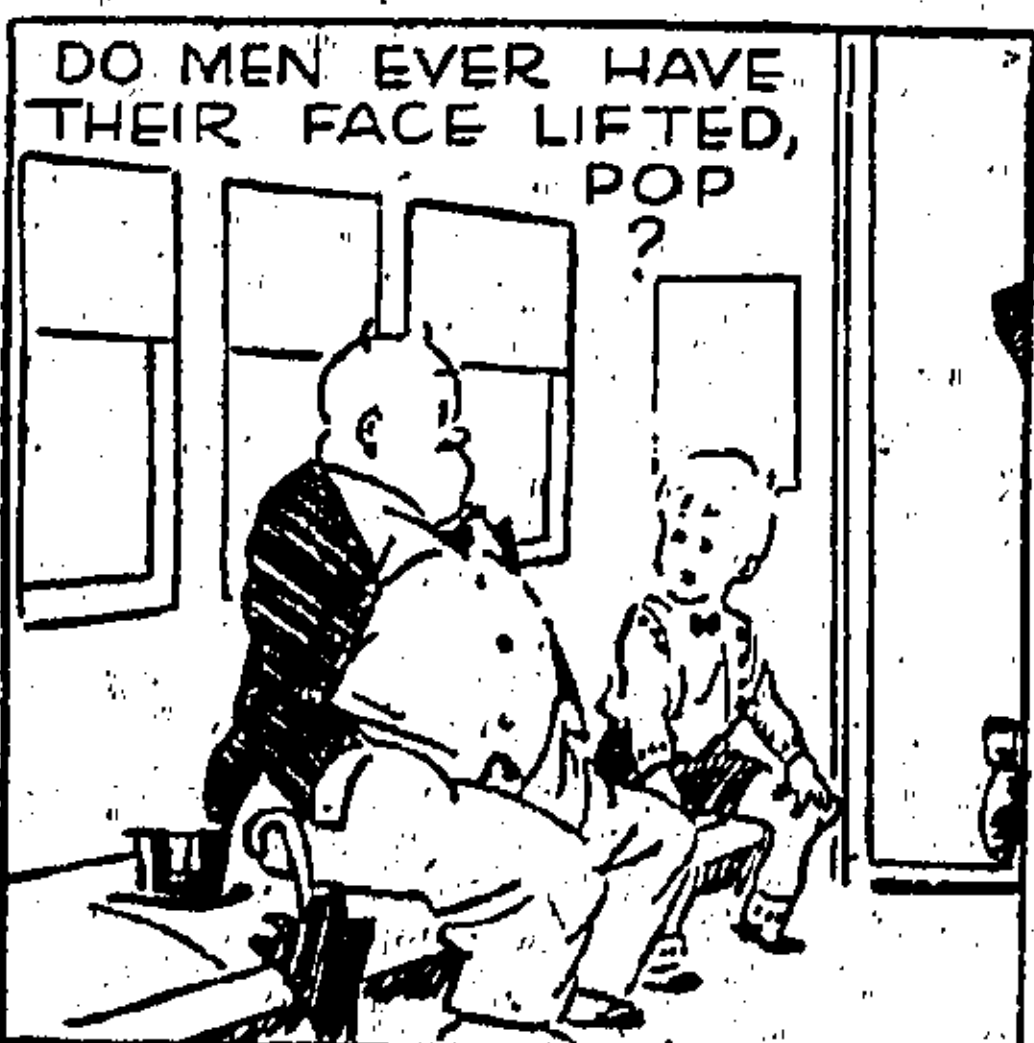

FORGED PASSAGE TICKET

A travelling trader, Cheung Man, and three unemployed, Chun Tai-shu, Li Shing and Ma Sau, appeared before Mr. Butters at the Central Court yesterday on the charge of uttering a forged document, a complimentary passage ticket purporting to have been authorised by Mr. Ma Hung-ching, Assistant Manager of the Sze Yip Shipping Co.

Cheung Chun-lai, another unemployed, was charged with possession of a forged document.

On the application of Detective Sergeant Hunter, Mr. Butters adjourned the case for 48 hours.

JAPANESE LOSSES ALONG THE YANGTSE RIVER

Hankow, July 11.

The Chinese papers today quote a foreign military observer's estimate that about 500 to 800 Japanese soldiers and sailors are being killed a day in the Yangtse River and in Shansi province. These appalling figures have a disquieting effect in Japan.

The reported a rival of 150,000 mechanized Soviet troops near the Manchukuo border has quickened the demand in Japan for an early cessation of hostilities, the observer said. (International)

"PUPPETS" AND PEACE

THE Japanese, realising that they are having the greatest difficulty in "beating China to her knees," have been using the two puppet Governments in Peking and Nanking to put out peace feelers. To that end the "puppet" Government in Peking was recently ordered to give out an official statement about the horrors of war and declaring that "it will take a century to recover from these horrors." It did not add, however, that these horrors were entirely caused by the Japanese—simple people, these men from Nippon. The statement ended with an appeal to the Generalissimo and the other leaders of the National Government to "acknowledge defeat."

All that China needs is material and on this point General Chen Cheng, commander of the Wuhan defences, recently made a declaration to the effect that China was assured of a continuous supply of modern war equipment from abroad and would consequently be able to continue the present war against Japan "to final victory."

General Chen, who is also Governor of Hupeh Province, said that foreign support and supplies for China could never be cut off by Japan, and added ironically "unless that country becomes allied with the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union"—not an immediate probability.

THIS is not very encouraging for the Japanese "puppets" flying kites to test the way the wind is blowing. And not very encouraging for a "holy war" in China and faced with the probability of a still larger military bill in the next budget.

Japan "controls" just that much of China as is within rifle-range of her invading armies. Beyond these narrow strips of ground on either side of the railways, the land is full of enemies—active and passive.

Organised and not organised—all inspired with the same intense hatred for the nation which has invaded their fatherland; ruthlessly slaughtered innocent non-combatants, savagely raped and tortured helpless women, and brought ruin and desolation to many millions.

Mr. Challinor's Evidence In Peak Murder Trial

The body of Mrs. Challinor was taken to the Mortuary, where a post-mortem examination disclosed she had received eight stab wounds. Prisoner remained in hospital until June 10 when he made a long statement in answer to the charge of murder. This statement was read into the records.

Mr. Whyatt concluded his opening by pointed out that if the Crown establish the two issues which he had mentioned, then there could be no other verdict but one of guilty, unless the defence could prove that at the time the prisoner did not know what he was doing. He submitted the defence could not discharge its burden in this respect.

MR. CHALLINOR CALLED

The first witness called was Mr. Richard Harold Challinor, who said that since January last accused had showed a decided falling off in his work, as a result of which he had to tell him to get another job.

Referring to the morning of the murder, witness said he was "suddenly" awakened by the voice of his wife, saying, "Boy, boy, don't be silly, don't be silly." He got up and after placing himself between his wife and prisoner, he said: "Boy, let's be sensible about this. You know what will happen to you if you injure Missie or me." Prisoner replied in quite a calm voice: "You say I'm not silly. I kill you."

As he was trying to push his wife to the passage way between the beds, she suddenly sprang out on the side towards the window. He, scrambled after her and prisoner, spotting this move, leapt forward and drove the knife straight at Mrs. Challinor who immediately collapsed.

Witness pulled prisoner to the floor, and while they were struggling, accused kept jabbing at Mrs. Challinor. After witness had spread-eagled prisoner, he called to his wife to go to the telephone. She attempted to rise but failed.

"Prisoner and I," continued witness, "struggled for a while. Then we eventually found ourselves on our feet. He was still armed. He kept jabbing at me with the knives and I was trying to ward off the blows. I eventually closed with him and we both fell to the floor. I got hold of both his wrists and in this position I said to him, 'Boy, this is all very silly. Missie lies in that corner killed by you, now you are trying to kill me. He replied quite calmly: 'I killed Missie; now I kill you.' We continued to struggle and eventually we got up again. I picked up a rattan chair with which I crashed over his head—but this made no impression at all. I closed with him again. We both fell heavily to the floor, which was covered with blood and slippery. We kept on struggling and I bit him on the cheek. He winced and tried to shake me off but I hang on to him like a bull-dog to another."

LONG STRUGGLE OVER

Witness said he got hold of the accused's left wrist and forced him to let go of the knife. This witness picked up with his damaged right hand, transferred it to his sound left hand and struck accused several times on the head with the handle. Witness then rose to his feet and allowed accused to do the same as witness was then feeling very weary. Accused dodged past him and ran out of the room. Witness closed and locked the bedroom door and rang the bell, but there was no response. He then opened the window and called for the gardener and amah, but there was still no response.

Unlocking the bedroom door, witness went to the telephone and called the police. After reporting to them, witness telephoned and got Dr. Durran. While he was telephoning, witness saw accused walking up and down the concrete pathway outside the house, and the man seemed to be calm and unperturbed. On Dr. Durran's arrival, witness was removed to the War Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Macnamara: When you were at the Magistracy you said accused seemed to be agitated. Can you explain the difference with what you have just said?

Witness: To my mind he looked quite calm.

Why did you tell the Magistrate he looked agitated?—I am afraid I made a mistake at the Magistrate.

At various times in your statement, you described the accused as stupid, very difficult and as impossible on one occasion?—I have said that.

Is that true?—Perfectly.

Would it be right to describe him as a person of low mentality?—I would not say so.

Don't you think that a person who is stupid, very difficult and impossible is a person of low mentality?—I don't think that follows. One finds many domestic servants very stupid and difficult.

Dr. Pfister, who has examined accused, says he has the average intelligence of a boy of about 14. Would you agree with that?—Certainly not. Accused has worked as my servant for 15 months and in many ways he is quite bright, but as far as his domestic duties were concerned, he was not so good.

How long did your struggle with the accused last?—Approximately 20 minutes.

When you were struggling with him was he displaying more strength than an average person?—He was armed with two knives.

Did he show strength on the knife being taken away from him?—Yes.

Would you agree with me if I say you are stronger than he is?—Yes.

He must have got up considerable strength to put a struggle with you for 20 minutes?—Yes.

You say you rang up the police. What did you tell them?—I said there was a murder in my house. My wife was dead, I was bleeding to death, and would they send an ambulance and take me to hospital.

Re-examined by Mr. Whyatt, witness said that when he had said "accused was stupid, difficult and impossible," he was referring to the man merely as a servant. His struggles with accused while the man was unarmed, lasted from four to five minutes. During the 15 minutes struggle with accused while he was armed, witness had been, for about 10 of those minutes, severely wounded, and losing blood rapidly.

"VERY FORTUNATE"

Asked what he thought would have happened if they both had been fighting with their bare fists only, witness said that in that case, accused would have been unfortunate.

The house coolie, Ho Yee-wah, said he had known the accused for about two years, and it was accused who had got him his job. On April 30, he received a letter from the master when he received his wages, and the accused read and explained it to him. On May 4, during the conversation, accused told witness he was lucky to keep his job, adding that he (accused) was not retaining his.

During those few days, witness noticed that accused appeared to be deep in thought and careless in his work. He usually had a good appetite, but ate very little during those few days.

On the evening of May 4, while they were preparing dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Challinor, accused said that witness had done him a injustice, and on being asked what that was, said witness had told the mistress that he was a leper. Witness challenged accused to go with him to the mistress but accused refused.

Witness went to see Mrs. Challinor herself, and on returning, told accused that the mistress had not said he was a leper. Accused then went into the house, saying he was going to see the mistress himself.

Witness went out later. When he returned from town about 4.15 a.m. he noticed that the light was on in Mr. Challinor's room. The gardener, who had also been out, was already in bed, and as witness was preparing to go to bed, he heard the iron gate of the kitchen being drawn and footsteps. Thinking that it was Mr. Challinor, witness switched off the light in his room.

The door of the room was then pushed open, the light was switched on, and witness saw accused, who was covered in blood and without his lower garments. Accused held a hammer in his hand and tried to strike witness with it, but witness warded off the blow with a quilt. Accused also attacked the gardener, but the latter also warded off the blow, and pushed accused out of the room.

Witness and the gardener then both ran out of the servants' quarters, and outside witness saw accused, who was shouting out that there had been an armed robbery. Witness and the gar-

EXTRA BULLETIN

M.V. Boissevain

THE DUTCH HOSPITALITY was a perfect background for the many "Bon Voyage" parties which took place Saturday p.m. Neither rain or thunder could keep the many friends and relatives from Walla Walla going out to the m.v. Boissevain's buoy, to bid farewell to the departing peoples.

M.V. Potsdam

CARRYING A FULL PASSENGER list and heavy cargo the Norddeutscher Lloyd Bremen's "Potsdam" stopped by Friday a.m.

Professor Dr. G. Huwer, who was a very early bird and off the ship before seven, was on his way to Canton.

We are extremely sorry not to have had the pleasure of meeting the Professor who will take up work in the Sun Yat Sen University. But maybe someday we shall stop in and see you in Canton.

Other arrivals and on their way to Canton were Mr. and Mrs. N. Spence. These two interesting people will watch out for the affairs of Standard Oil Company in the Chinese city.

Away the same day, at noon, to Shanghai went this de luxe German vessel, and racing the Empress of Russia and the Conte Verde, we are betting on the m.v. Potsdam.

Mr. E. R. Girard, Vice-President of the Telephone Company was on a business trip, to Shanghai. We hope he did catch the boat, for it was five minutes before those three toots were due to sound off, and he was nowhere in sight.

Hong Kong is such a delightful place," remarked the Swiss Consul-General, Mr. E. Fontana, just before sailing to Shanghai on the m.v. Potsdam. His short stay in the Colony was most pleasant and he only wished he could have prolonged his days here, but duties in Shanghai demanded attention.

We hope next time you will have more time to spend among your friends here.

And so we still talk about Mr. and Mrs. going away party aboard such and such and they were all "somethin'."

Kowloon Tong Ball —A Blaze Of Colour And— Beautiful Dresses

BY ROZANNE

Walking along Waterloo Road on Sunday night you would have been surprised to hear music and a hum of voices and much laughter. Pausing at the gate you would have seen coloured lights, flags waving above white covered tables set out in artistic groups in the garden.

In and out of the tables moved material, crisp and multicoloured floating by. Miss Lulu Wang had fallen for it, and everyone must have fallen for her skilfully-worked pattern of black and white. Mrs. Rose Tan, who must have been most proud of her daughter's dancing, had a glistering silver thread through hers. Mrs. Sidney Ng Quinn, who also favoured this material, had chosen a pattern of scattered red and white flowers.

Flowers, flowers and more flowers. Mrs. Kwok had gold lacquered ones on her sleek Shanghai style black lace gown. Mrs. H. S. Soong went all Hawaii with wreaths of white flowers round her neck and in her hair, contrasting well with her black silk model. Mrs. Violet Chan, who wore flowered crepe-de-chine, matched this with a gay daring wreath of flaming poppies crowning her smart coiffure.

ENTERTAINMENT

Miss Rose Tan gave a very creditable performance on her toes and taps. The Misses Stella and Helen Ho gracefully twirled and swayed to gipsy music. The well-known tenor, Mr. Li Chor-chi kindly sang two songs and Miss Lee Yee-nin enchanted the public with her charming rendering of Chinese songs. Miss Colleen Ng also sang to a delighted audience. There were many more attractive numbers, and it would be impossible to describe them all.

BEAUTIFUL CLOTHES

What a bevy of beauties and beautiful clothes was there! Most difficult to pick out any one! Organdy was a very popular choice. I saw many dresses of this material. Miss Mack, enhanced her brunette charm with white silk organdy, which had a composite pattern of leaves. Mrs. T. Ip Lee and Mrs. Samy both wore crepe-de-chine, the former choosing one of the new shades of blue and the latter patterning her suave model with red and black flowers. Mrs. Reeves swirled clouds of soft and flowered net.

CROSS-EXAMINATION BY MR. MACNAMARA

Mr. Macnamara asked in cross-examination:

You say accused attacked you with a hammer?—Yes.

Was he calm and collected or did he appear to be excited?

Can you give any reason why he should attack you with a hammer?—Since I have been watching him I discovered that on occasions he engaged in deep study of things. So I formed the opinion that there was something wrong with his head.

How long have you belonged to the Yan Ping Villagers' Association? (Witness had mentioned this in examination in chief).—I have been a member for about two years.

Did you ever hear of anything there to cause you to think that there was anything wrong with his head?—On two or three occasions I have seen accused quarrelling with other people.

Did you ever see him breaking things?—No.

"SO-CHAI"

You know he was referred to in this club as "So-chai" (Silly) Chun?—I have never heard him called that.

Did you know of any reason at all why he should attack the gardener with a hammer?—I can't say.

Was there any reason why anybody should say he was a leper?—According to what he said he heard mistress had said he was a leper.

You say you heard the detectives asking him questions. Did you hear what the questions were?—The detectives asked him what he wanted to stab, mistress for.

Mr. Whyatt (re-examining): You said that you formed the opinion that there was something wrong with his head. How long have you held that opinion?—I observed that he had been trying to pick his nails and seemed to be engaged in deep thinking only after he had received notice from the master.

When he was not in deep thought, when he was preparing meals in the kitchen and so on, did he appear to you to know what he was doing?—That evening that he was doing cooking in the kitchen he missed something that he should have done.

"KNEW OF NO REASON"

Cross-examined by Mr. Macnamara, Huen On, the gardener who also gave evidence corroborating the Crown's opening, said he knew of no reason why accused should attack him. When he came into witness' quarters and attacked the two of them he appeared to be very excited.

Lam Hei, cook, employed at No. 551 The Peak, said accused was a clansman of his and he had known him since he was a boy.

At about 10.30 p.m. on May 4 prisoner came to see him, bringing with him his clothing. He told witness he was no longer in the employ of his master. He asked that he be allowed to leave his clothing there for several days as he was going back to the country. He left about five or ten minutes past 11 p.m.

His demeanour appeared to be quite normal.

Mr. Macnamara: You have known accused since childhood. Have you, in the interval between childhood and the present time, seen him frequently, or infrequently?—Only on rare occasions did I see him.

DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE

Dr. J. Durran said he lived in May Road. At approximately 4.32 a.m. on May 5 he received a telephone message as the result of which he drove to Mr. Challinor's house. He was admitted by Mr. Challinor, who was covered with blood from head to foot, and had several wounds. Witness went straight to the bedroom and looked at Mrs. Challinor. Mr. Challinor saying he was sure she was dead. He examined her and found this was correct.

"I then attended to Mr. Challinor," Dr. Durran went on, "who was still bleeding from several wounds, and applied first aid dressing. After this I phoned the War Memorial Hospital and asked them to prepare the theatre for an operation."

"I then called up another doctor and asked him to come up and help me if he could. While I was phoning there was a disturbance outside the front door. I opened it and saw a man lying on the ground, with two other Chinese standing over him, apparently questioning him. A little later the police and an ambulance arrived."

"At the War Memorial Hospital, I examined Mr. Challinor's wounds and found he had several fairly large ones."

WOUNDS DESCRIBED

Here the doctor described the wounds and said in his opinion they would have a serious effect on Mr. Challinor's capabilities to resist an attack, as he had lost a considerable amount of blood. The wounds could have been caused by either or both of the knives in court.

Mr. Macnamara: You are aware of the condition epileptic equivalent?—Yes.

Will you please explain it?—It is a rare condition in which an epileptic fit takes the form of a maniacal outburst of fury in place of the usual convulsions.

Maniacal? That is pertaining to maniac?—Yes.

That means for the time being the person is mad?—Yes.

These attacks, what is the condition of the person attacked?—He usually has no memory of the event.

What is he like after the event?—He may appear to be quite normal.

"HE WOULD NOT HAVE"

Mr. Whyatt (re-examining): Can you give any opinion as to whether person who committed a crime during an attack of epileptic equivalent would have made preparations for it?—No, he would not have.

Have you ever heard of a case when a person has made preparations?—No, from the very nature of the occurrence it would be absurd.

Wong Hui, P.C. C578, said he received certain instructions at about 4.45 a.m. on May 5 to go to No. 499 The Peak. On the way he and his companion met second and third witnesses who reported something to them. When they reached No. 499 the other detective pressed the bell and he himself flashed his torch all round the place.

On the roof I saw the dark figure which appeared to be that of a man squatting down. The man jumped down and landed on the concrete pathway. I went up to him to question him. Sergeant Moran arrived and he instructed me to question him.

"I asked him why he was covered in blood," witness went on, "and he said I have been attacking my master. Not only myself. The houseboy attacked the mistress and the gardener kept watch."

"GO QUICKLY"

Mr. Macnamara: What did Sergeant Moran tell you before you left the station?—He said "Go quickly to No. 499 The Peak, a houseboy was attacking his master. So, seeing him covered with blood it was not difficult to put two and two together and to know that was the man you were after?—Yes."

I put it to you that what you said was this: "Why have you been attacking your mistress?—No."

How long did this interrogation take?—At the most ten minutes. As the result of that interrogation which lasted at the most ten minutes, in the depositions it occupies only seven lines. I put question by question and he answered each.

I put it to you that the questions and answers must have been a great many more than in depositions made by you?—These were all the questions and answers that took place.

That took you at the most ten minutes?—I only guess at the time. You have told us at some stage of the questioning that he was cocky at No. 499. When you were before the Magistrate you said he gave his name as Lam Chun, aged 30, of Yan Ping, and said he was cocky at No. 499.

Was that the order in which the information was imparted to you?—Yes.

Here Mr. Macnamara said something to His Lordship regarding the admissibility of certain evidence but curtailed his remark by saying he would ask the witness another question.

"I CAUTIONED HIM"

To witness: Did you administer any or what caution?—What kind of a caution?

The caution which is given to a person before arrest. I did. You cautioned him?—I did.

His Lordship:—Be careful. Witness:—I did.

Mr. Macnamara: During your course of training with the police are there any instructions given to you about cautioning people whom you are about to arrest?—Yes.

If that is so, why did you ask me just now, what caution?—I have been informed that you committed such a crime and I am arresting you for it.

His Lordship: Suppose you answer Mr. Macnamara's question.

Witness: I asked what sort of question because I did not understand the question.

Mr. Macnamara: Surely the question was plain enough: "Did you administer a caution?"—I know now.

When you gave evidence at the Magistrate you said nothing at all about "having administered a caution."—Whether or not the interpreter put it to the court for me I do not know.

"I DON'T REMEMBER"

His Lordship: You mean you told the court that?—I don't remember now.

Mr. Macnamara: I put it to you formally that you never cautioned him at all. I did.

I put it to you again that what you really said to this man was this: "Why did you attack your mistress?"—I did not put that question at all.

Mr. Whyatt (re-examining): Did you write down at the time the answers the person gave to you?—Yes, I wrote them down on a piece of paper.

Witness produced a piece of paper from his pocket and read from it: "Lam Chun, 30 years, Yan Ping, Lung Hwan, I cut my master. Not only I, several others also had taken part. The coolie cut mistress. Fa Wong kept watch. 4 a.m. on May 5. Time accused was arrested 4.55 a.m. Gardener's name Huen On, coolie Ho Yu-wah."

"SLIGHTLY CONFUSED"

His Lordship: Why was the answer he gave you about his being the houseboy not in the paper?—He told me he was the houseboy but I did not put it down.

Why didn't you?—I did not put it down.

Why not? Answer the question. I was then slightly confused, therefore I did not put it down. You were calm enough to write the rest down but you left out that one part?—I missed it.

Again, you say that you knew almost immediately that he was the boy there. Then you must have known then and there that he was the suspect, the person you were after. Then why ask him why he was covered with blood?—I asked him what was the matter.

You have told the court you asked him why he was covered with blood. I have put down all the questions here.

You have not. All you purport to give is the answers.—Yes. Well, be more careful!

WITNESS' GIDDINESS

The question was repeated and witness told the interpreter that he was feeling giddy and asked His Lordship to excuse him.

Witness was mopping his face with a handkerchief and appeared to be swaying a little and Mr. Whyatt suggested that he might be recalled in the morning.

His Lordship allowed witness to leave the box for a rest but said he wished to recall him sooner than that.

Inspector Rozeksky then assisted witness from the box to one of the seats, where he was given a drink of water.

Police evidence was given by Sergeant H. N. Moran officer in charge of Gough Hill Police Station. Detective-Inspector C. Rozeksky, and Detective Chu Leung.

Mr. R. D. Gillespie, Director of Imperial Chemical Industries (China) Ltd., said he identified the body of Mrs. Challinor, whom he knew well, on May 5.

POST-MORTEM EVIDENCE

Dr. L. D. Pringle said he performed a post-mortem examination on Mrs. Challinor and found eight wounds on the body. They were all incised wounds, as cut by a knife. Wound No. 1 was 2 1/2 inches long, situated immediately below the outer end of the left collarbone.

Witness also described the other wounds, which he said could have been caused by either or both of the knives in court. He thought considerable force must have been used to inflict some of the wounds.

The first wound was the most severe wound. The sub-clavium vessels which were severed would naturally cause a fatal haemorrhage and death would ensue within two minutes. Death was, in witness' view, due to haemorrhage from multiple stab wounds.

After Chan Tak-ki, interpreter stationed at headquarters, had read the statement made by prisoner when he was charged, Wong Hui, P.C. C578, was recalled.

His Lordship: Think carefully before you answer any question and answer truthfully. If you tell lies you will get into hopeless trouble. What were the actual words the interpreter told you at Gough Hill station?—He said "At No. 499 The Peak a boy attacking master or mistress."

Hong Kong Man Held As Spy

ARRESTED AT WUCHANG

Hankow, July 11.

Peter Prevett, a British subject born in Hong Kong, was detained by the Chinese authorities at Wuchang aerodrome on June 28 while boarding a plane for Hong Kong. It was revealed today.

He was detained on alleged espionage activities. On hearing of the arrest, the British Consul-General requested that Prevett be handed over, and the request was immediately complied with.

Prevett is remaining in Hankow pending elucidation of the situation.—(Reuter).

Did you understand what boy was meant?—I understood it to be the boy who served at the dinner-table at No. 499.

Then when you got to the house this blood-stained figure jumped from the roof and you started to question him?—Yes.

You asked him first his name, second his age, third his name and address?—Yes.

And next his occupation?—Directly when I asked him, "what did you do," he said "I attacked my master."

"WAS THE BOY"

You have told us previously that he told you first and foremost that he was a boy. He himself never told me he was a boy. I was informed by the Fa Wong later that he was the boy.

Why did you tell us, both Mr. Macnamara and I that you asked him what was his occupation and he said he was a boy?—Witness repeated his previous answer.

His Lordship then delivered another warning. Now, you be more careful. You told the court twice that you asked him what he did for his living and he said he was a boy. I did ask him what his occupation was, but he did not answer.

Just now twice you told us he said he was a boy. I do not remember what I said just now.

"LIE OR MISTAKE?"

Whether you remember or not that is what you said just now. Was that a lie or a mistake?—I don't remember whether or not I did or did not ask him that.

You have told us you asked him why he was covered in blood. Is that correct?—Yes.

Did you at that time know he was the boy?—No.

Do you say now that you did not learn that fact from him, but from the gardener? Be careful. I got this information from the gardener.

In reply to His Lordship as to whether he had any further questions, Mr. Macnamara said I just want to remind him that when he was in the police court (to witness) you were quite clear that you asked him and that he replied he was the cookboy at No. 499. I did say that in answer to the Magistrate.

Which is correct, what you said at the Magistrate, or here?—I inquired from the gardener afterwards what his occupation was. His Lordship: You told the Magistrate that he said so himself.

Witness: When I heard from the gardener that was when I knew he was the boy.

"PERJURY"

His Lordship: Why did you tell the Magistrate he said so himself?—Do you want to find yourself in the dock for perjury?—I don't remember what I said to the Magistrate.

Mr. Macnamara: This caution which you say you administered to him. When was that administered?—At the time when I put the questions to him.

After which question did you caution him?—When I walked to him I cautioned him straight away.

Mr. Macnamara: This is remarkable.

His Lordship: Before you knew who he was.

Mr. Macnamara: There is no mention in what you put down about any caution. I did caution him though I did not put it down there.

Furthermore, at the Magistrate you never made any mention of this?—No.

WILD EAGLE OF JAPANESE NAVY

Captured Aviator Receiving Medical Treatment

Canton, July 11.

Lieut.-Commander Y. Ishita, the Japanese flying ace who was shot down on July 7 while carrying out bombing operations over Yingtak, on the Canton-Hankow Railway, is receiving further medical treatment for the burns on his face and injuries to his legs and arms.

Instructions are awaited from Hankow as to whether the captive should be sent there for confinement like other captured Japanese airmen. Known as "Wild Eagle of the Japanese Navy," Lieut.-Commander Ishita showed gentleness and docility when questioned concerning the circumstances of his flight.

LEADER OF SQUADRON

The flying officer insisted that his first bombing expedition over Kwangtung was on July 7 when he was shot down during a power-dive. He first claimed to be a third-class able-bodied seaman, but a discarded uniform found near the place he landed disclosed that he held the rank of Lieutenant-Commander in the Japanese Navy.

With his high rank, it is believed that Commander Ishita was the leader of the squadron that bombed the railway on July 7 and that he took part in previous raids on Canton.—(International).

What I suggest to you is this. This idea, this evidence of your having given a caution was made up in the witness-box today.—It is a rule that when a man is arrested he must be cautioned.

"NOT ABLE TO MOVE"

So you made up your mind to arrest him before you asked him a single question?—He was not able to move then.

Mr. Macnamara repeated the question.—Certainly.

His Lordship: I see, though you did not know anything about him.

Mr. Whyatt (re-examining): You said you made up your mind to arrest him. Had you made up your mind to charge him?—Yes.

What with?—I was wondering whether the man who had attacked his master had run away or not.

In the course of your career in the Hong Kong Police have you ever charged anybody?—Yes.

On this particular morning, had you made up your mind to charge him and if so, what with?—For murder.

His Lordship: Although you did not know anyone had been murdered?—Because he was covered with blood.

Mr. Whyatt: You told my learned friend that you did not mention having administered a caution at the Magistrate. Did anyone ask you at the Magistrate?—No.

The hearing was then adjourned till 10 a.m. today.

SUCCESSFUL CHINESE RAIDS IN YANGTSE

Warplanes Attack Japanese Naval Concentration

Hankow, July 11. Defying a terrific outburst of anti-aircraft gunfire and diving low over Japanese vessels, a strong Chinese squadron inflicted further serious blows to a group of 16 Japanese warships in the vicinity of Hukow on the Yangtse yesterday afternoon.

Two cruisers, according to an official announcement, were repeatedly hit and were in a sinking condition. The other 14 vessels were either damaged or had to steam downstream.

The attack on Hukow, the announcement stated, was the second of a series of three raids conducted by Chinese air squadrons yesterday.

In the first raid, in which an undisclosed number of planes participated, a fleet of Japanese ships between Tungliu and Pengtseh was the target of the attack.

Three cruisers and many smaller gunboats were seen in formation near the north bank, and were immediately attacked. Two of the cruisers, it was claimed, were hit and badly damaged.

RETURN SAFELY

In the third raid, six large and several other small Japanese vessels were attacked at Tungliu. A direct hit was scored on two large ships, one of which emitted smoke and the other caught fire.

During the second raid, the Chinese fliers were challenged by a squadron of Japanese biplanes but managed to return to their base safely.—(Central News).

WANTON TUNGKWAN BOMBING

Hankow, July 11. A belated report received here tells of a wanton Japanese air raid over Tungkwang on July 7, the war anniversary, during which more than 20 civilians were known to have been killed outright while many more were buried alive in a dug-out when it collapsed as a result of concussion.

Altogether 18 Japanese bombers, flying from a northeasterly direction, broke into Tungkwang and rained more than 100 bombs on the city. Whole rows of houses along the main streets were levelled to the ground during the terrific bombing.

More than 10 bombs landed on a hill in the eastern part of the city, causing the collapse of the dug-out and burying many refugees alive.—(Central News).

THE WIMBLEDON FINAL

Donald Budge's Mastery

AUSTIN'S SKILFUL ATTEMPT AT GIANT-KILLING

J. D. Budge was much too good. He won his second Championship at the All-England Club recently by beating H. W. Austin in just over the hour by 6-1, 6-4, 6-3, and looked as though he could go on winning so long as he cares to come to Wimbledon, writes The Times correspondent. After a match that was full of interest for more serious students of the game—the outcome was only too clearly in view for those who love a dog-fight—Budge and Austin were presented to Queen Mary, who, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Kent, presided over the Centre Court for the first time this year.

Figures, one has read, are the root of all knowledge, but in the case of the singles final they belie Austin's quite skilful attempt at giant-killing. Yet they bear out only too accurately the merciless mastery of Budge, the first American to have played through and won two years running—the first man, indeed, to have accomplished quite a number of things.

This was not an example of the Venus versus Austin slaughter of six years ago; but phenomenal though Budge is for the power and control of strokes at angles no one else has thought of, how we sighed for the days of 10 years and more ago when there were quite a lot of giants!

DID ALL HE COULD
Austin, at a disadvantage in build and reach, did all he could; some of his aces—and there were 66 of them to Budge's 99—were as impressive in length and severity as his adversary's; but what could he really do against a man who hit winners off shots that would have beaten most people? They were beating Henkel all right in the semi-final round, and Austin played just as well as he did then.

In Budge he had an adversary who could attack any ball from any position, who hardly made a defensive stroke the whole match through.

Finding Another Ames For Test Matches

In doing his job, the wicket-keeper is like the engine-driver: nobody takes much notice of him as long as all is well, writes a Home correspondent.

This time the accident has happened to the engine-driver himself and not to the train. Our wicket-keeper is out of commission; and we are told he is out of the next two Test matches.

True, we have plenty of first-rate substitutes available; but the loss of Leslie Ames is a great loss.

I watched him all through the last tour and the Test matches in Australia; and I believe I was rather lonely in expressing unstinted admiration of his work, which was as perfect in style as it was complete in efficiency. In fact, I never saw him make a mistake and he was wonderfully quick. Above all I admired his quietude. He was quiet as a nesting thrush.

This season he is as good as ever, and he now knows our main Test match bowlers, a signal advantage.

IRREPLACEABLE
This familiarity is irreplaceable at the moment. Nor can we replace him with a batsman at all his equal; at least, I think not, because I regard him as one of our three best batsmen.

And again, he is a close friend of our captain, who regards him as a valuable consultant.

In short, that bumping ball from McCormick, which bashed Leslie Ames's hand, did England (in the cricket field) a very bad turn. And we have to find the best man to take his place.

Perhaps you remember that during the match between the Gentlemen of England and the Australians I recommended P. A. Gibbs as probably our best wicket-keeper batsman; and no doubt the recommendation argued no great sagacity.

Gibbs is now in print, I see, a popular candidate. But you may also remember that University cricketers are rarely fancied by the hardened critics for representative matches.

A TERRIFIC FINISH

SOMERSET'S GALLANT WIN

Somerset beat Nottinghamshire in one of the most exciting finishes of the season at Trent Bridge recently by one wicket within two minutes of time, says The Times.

Throughout the match the sides fought a grim battle for supremacy and Somerset finished four runs ahead on the first innings. Nottinghamshire made a brave effort to win the 12 points at issue and Gunn, in particular, batted and bowled well.

The task of scoring 224 in the last innings seemed very hard, but Somerset showed wonderful consistency, for, apart from Lee and the two batsmen, Luckes and Hazell, who were still in at the finish, all the side scored double figures.

As one, by one the Somerset men fell to catches—there were nine in that exciting second innings—the interest rose. Somerset needed six runs when Hazell, their last man, went in.

A left-hander, he calmly put an end to the proceedings by cutting the first ball he received from Voce to the boundary and, to the general delight, he turned the next to leg for two and so the match was won.

GUNN'S GOOD INNINGS

Nottinghamshire's only hope of forcing a victory lay in a determined effort to get runs quickly in the morning. This purpose was achieved, thanks largely to Gunn's skill and enterprise in raising his score from 25 to 68. Driving superbly, he hit 11 4's having defied Somerset for two hours and 20 minutes, he was eighth out, caught at slip.

Gunn's aggression inspired Wheat to hit the bowling, and the wicketkeeper, getting off the mark by hooking Wellard for 6, scored 32 not out.

Going in just before 1 o'clock, Somerset met with a quick disaster. Lee being out with only six runs scored, but hopes were revived when Gimblett scored 35, which included six 4's out of 38.

Buse and Andrews offered stubborn resistance, but both, left by the time the total reached 104, but by tea time half the side was out with another 89 runs wanted and a half hour left for play. Burrough made one terrific straight drive for 6 off Gunn.

After tea Jones was caught at the wicket, but Wellard, just the man for the occasion, hit Voce away to the boundary three times. It did not last, however.

Gunn bowled Wellard a long hop which went for 6, and then a shorter ball which Wellard pulled into Keeton's hands at long-on. At half past 5 Longridge was eighth out with 38 runs wanted, and extra time was taken.

Amid great excitement the total was carried to 218, when, with five minutes to go, a plucky innings by Barnwell was ended in a mistimed drive to cover.

Hazell met Barnwell half-way towards the pavilion, and, to the great jubilation of his colleagues grouped in front of the pavilion, he cut the first ball from Voce to

YORKSHIRE WIN IN AN INNINGS

Worcestershire Outplayed

Yorkshire beat Worcestershire at Worcester by an innings and 18 runs, and in so doing scored their ninth Championship victory of the season.

Worcestershire lost 15 wickets during the day for 253 runs. In the morning their five remaining first-innings wickets went down for only 30 runs, and Horton alone showed any ability to counter the varied Yorkshire attack.

When Worcestershire followed on, Warne stood practically alone. He defied the Yorkshire bowling for 95 minutes in making his highest score of the season.

New Szechuen - Yunnan
Railway, Final Decision Is Awaited

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

Inhabitants here in Suifu, Ipian, are awaiting with keen interest the final decision of the National Ministry of Communications regarding the location of the proposed Szechuen-Yunnan Railway. Many of the engineers reconnoitering the line are in favour of having Suifu as a railroad centre.

PHILIPPINE MINING NEWS

ALDECOA GOLD Mines, Inc. announces that the operating contract with G. T. Geringer was approved and ratified at the adjourned meeting of the stockholders held at its offices recently. The operating contract was submitted by the board of directors as recommended by the president. The board of directors are John Canson, G. M. Catterman, L. R. Bobbitt, J. F. Boomer and W. R. Cotherham.

QUARTZ-HILL Mining Company, Inc. at the meeting of the board of directors held recently, declared and approved that the fourth payment of 25 per cent of subscribed stock of the corporation be due and payable as of July 1.

H. L. Harries, secretary, said that all stock up which subscription payment are due, with interest accrued, which have not been paid on or before August 1, 1938, will be declared delinquent and advertised for sale at public auction.

For the purpose of increasing the income of the government especially at this time, the Kwangtung Provincial Finance Department has instructed every District Magistrate to establish immediately a Revenue Collection Office.

The Chinese hope for an early starting of railway lines from Kunming, Yunnan, to Burma, this would provide more outlets to the sea, apart from the line running between Yunnanfu and Haiphong via Hanoi in Indo-China. British and French interests are offering financial assistance to the Chinese desiring an early construction of more railway lines. The French banks have already advanced a substantial loan to the Szechuen-Kweichow Railway for the construction of the Chengtu-Chungking section.

ENGLISH AS "WORLD LANGUAGE"
An intensive study of English by all classes in Finland is urged in a letter occupying a whole column in the Helsinki newspaper Uusi Suomal. The writer points out that English is the mother tongue of 550 million of the world's inhabitants, as against 80 million German-speaking and 75 million French-speaking natives. English is, moreover, claimed to be the recognised official language in industrial, commercial, banking and shipping circles, as well as being commonly employed in the annually increasing tourist traffic. Owing to the custom of publishing international works in English, the study of that language has greatly increased throughout the world, and more particularly in Soviet Russia, Scandinavia and the Baltic States.	though French is still employed as the official diplomatic language, the prominent part being played in world politics by both Great Britain and the United States of America is resulting in French being gradually, but inevitably, superseded by English. In conclusion, the writer urges that the greatest possible importance must be attached to an intensive study of English in all Finnish official, educational, com-

REAFFIRMS DETERMINATION TO DEFEND WUHAN

General Chen Cheng's Advice To The Chinese People

Hankow, July 11.
China's determination to defend the Wuhan area is reaffirmed in a statement issued by General Chen Cheng, Defence Commander of the Wuhan Area.
Now that the Japanese are set upon advancing on the Wuhan area the imminent major battle will be a decisive one from the standpoint of exhausting the invaders, says General Chen.
While calling upon each individual to rally to the colours and be prepared to make sacrifices, General Chen points out the way to which the cause may best be served.

In the first place, every one should have the unflinching conviction that victory will be China's if orders are strictly carried out under the direction of the Supreme Leader.

Inasmuch as the defence of Wuhan now becomes the primary concern of the nation, General Chen calls upon the people to contribute whatever they have, either in the form of money or labour, and to refrain from taking any action or forming any organisation which may hamper defence in the slightest way.

STRATEGIC POINT
Though admitting that the protection of Wuhan is a ponderous task, Gen. Chen assures the people that the Government has already laid out a comprehensive plan of defence.

On the part of the intellectuals, General Chen says, they should immediately help to mobilise the male adults for military training, organise and train the masses, elevate administrative efficiency, mobilise material resources, maintain order in the rear, "comfort" the troops, and administer medical relief.

"Today, Wuhan has become the most strategic point in the third stage of military operations. Here is the foundation on which the rejuvenation of the nation will rest," declares General Chen.—(Central News).

CHOLERA SWEEPS SHANGHAI

Seventy Cases Daily Average

Shanghai, July 11.
As a result of the extreme heat the cholera epidemic has increased greatly during the past week.

An average of 70 cases daily are being reported to the municipal health authorities. Deaths average eight daily.

The French Concession and International Settlement appear to be the chief sufferers from the epidemic.

Since mid-May a total of 1,700 Chinese have been affected by the disease, the deaths totalling 234. Most of the victims have been refugees.

A hundred thousand residents in the French Concession have so far been inoculated, and, at the present time, about 30,000 injections are being administered daily.

EMPRESS QUARANTINED
Several cases were discovered on board the Empress of Russia. It was announced here when the steamer was placed under quarantine upon arrival from Hong Kong.—(Transocean).

GUERILLAS MASS FOR GENERAL ATTACK NEAR SHANGHAI

Counter-Stroke Against Drive On Hankow

Shanghai, July 11.
A tense situation is developing here with the arrival of more Japanese troops following the report that over 300,000 Chinese troops are lurking in the vicinity of the Shanghai-Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow Railways ready to attack the Japanese as a counter-stroke against the Japanese advance on Hankow.

The arrival of Chinese troops close to Shanghai is possible owing to the fact that the Japanese are guarding only railway towns and a distance of about 30 kilometres on both sides of the railways.

A Chinese report states that the number of Chinese troops is 700,000, while the Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury says that these soldiers are from former Communist units, now converted into national divisions.

GENERAL ATTACK

Towns on the north shore of Hangchow Bay such as Chapoo, Haining, Haiyen and Kaitshing, are often harassed by Chinese guerrillas, who are co-operating with the regulars along the railways. A general attack by the Chinese is expected this week.—(International).

THREE LEADERS EXECUTED

Shanghai, July 11.
Three guerrilla leaders who inflicted considerable casualties to Japanese troops in Fochung were executed yesterday by the Japanese military authorities.

The three men were Wu Keh-ming, Li Fu-han and Yuan Tzu-chang.—(International).

JAPANESE PLAN

Hankow, July 11.
Japanese artillery went into action at dawn this morning on the south bank of Hukow and Pangtse in an effort to clear a way for infantry units to advance southward via Poyang Lake to Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi.

Chinese troops are massed in the vicinity of Poyang Lake, where strong defence works were completed recently.

The Japanese plan is to take Nanchang, thence drive to Yochow in north Hunan to cut the Canton-Hankow Railway and to threaten Hankow from the south.—(International).

"OFFER GOLD" MOVEMENT IN KUNMING

Gifts From Poor Swell Total

Kunming, July 11.
Dressed in the coarsest of clothes, bareheaded and shod in straw, a lowly ricksha puller by the name of Li came timidly to the donation box on the grand stand, bowed awkwardly before the picture of the Generalissimo, and unceremoniously slipped his day's earnings, a total of 50 cents, into the slot.

This represented one of the numerous moving scenes witnessed here at the "Offer Gold" movement which ended last Saturday after a three-day campaign.

Another coolie, Ma, gave the princely sum of $5 in old Yunnan currency to swell the national coffers. To donate this amount, Ma and members of his family had to go without food for two days.

A primary school boy denied himself three days' candy and contributed 15 coppers.

Thirty female workers in a factory, roused by patriotic fervour, all gave their shares, ranging from $2 to fifty cents, in response to the call for gifts of gold.

In the three days' campaign, it is estimated, a total sum of $65,000 was collected.—(Central News).

JAPANESE PLANE VISITS SHENSI

Sian, July 11.
A lone Japanese plane visited a number of points in Shensi, including Hwaying, Sienyang, Chinyang and Sian, this morning.

Taking off from its base in Shansi, the Japanese, airmen broke into Shensi by way of Tungkwang and conducted extensive reconnoitering along the railway and the Wei river.—(Central News).

CATHEDRAL OF RHEIMS

Famous Edifice Opened After Restoration

Rheims, July 11.
The city was beflagged yesterday when the reconstructed Cathedral was officially opened by Archbishop Suhard in the presence of President Lebrun, General Petain, members of the French Senate and Chamber of Deputies, 59 Cardinals, Archbishops, Bishops and a host of other distinguished people including Cardinal Hinsley, Bishop of Westminster, and many British peers and Members of Parliament.

FRANCE'S FRIENDS
Archbishop Suhard, in a sermon referring to the British Sovereigns' visit to Paris, declared that France never forgot her friends. The fervour in Paris, he said, would demonstrate this in a few days.

The festival to celebrate the restoration of Rheims Cathedral began on Friday when Mr. William C. Bullitt, United States Ambassador, was made an honorary citizen of Rheims in recognition of the many benefits bestowed on the town by Americans. The celebrations included the performance of a 12th Century mystery play and floodlighting of the Cathedral.—(Reuter).

HOWARD HUGHES' FLIGHT

New York, July 11.
Howard Hughes, the millionaire film producer, who is flying the Atlantic, has sent a radio message that he has crossed the French coast.—(Reuter).

STABILISING EFFECT

Another message received here from Kiangsi declared that the series of Chinese successes along the Yangtze has had a stabilising effect on the situation east of Kiangsi and west of Poyang Lake. With the exception of the aged and women and children who have evacuated, things are normal in these places.

The Chinese defence along the river and on the borders of the Poyang Lake, the message declared, is extremely strong.—(Central News).

FOREIGN MAILS

Parcel Post Service to Amoy Island is temporarily suspended. Parcels can be accepted for Kulangsu only.

Air mail letters may be posted in the ordinary posting boxes. They should be clearly marked "By Air Mail" and bear sufficient postage. Insufficiently prepaid letters may be taxed with double the deficiency or forwarded by Steamer Service, at the discretion of the Post Office.

Air Mail Services to Shanghai, Nanking, Tientsin, Tientsin and Peking are temporarily suspended.

Letters and Postcards for Europe and South America are forwarded "via Siberia" if so superscribed.
